

Byrnes Delays His Decision On Delegates

Action on Release
Will Wait Until Convention Starts

GREEN BAY — Rep. John Byrnes said Sunday that "absolutely no decision" has been made at this time on releasing the Republican national convention delegation pledged to him as favorite son from the April primary.

Byrnes made the statement after an article Sunday quoted him as saying his understanding of the primary law is that he, as the favorite son candidate, could release the delegation before the first roll call. He said this could happen on Wednesday, July 15, the day of presidential nominations and the first roll call.

May Await Actual Voting

Byrnes said Sunday he was concerned that the quotation indicated a decision already was made.

"Absolutely no decision with respect to releasing the Wisconsin delegation to the Republican national convention has been made, and no decision will be made until the convention convenes in San Francisco. A firm decision will probably not be made until the day of the nominations and the first ballot which is expected to be Wednesday, July 15," Byrnes said.

There is some dispute among lawyers about the intent of the primary law in the area of delegates being released. The section of the law in question says that delegates elected in the primary pledge they "will, until released by said candidate, vote for his candidacy on the first ballot of the said party convention and vote for his candidacy on all ensuing ballots" unless the total vote for the candidate falls below 10 percent of the convention total.

Gov. John Reynolds, who ran as a favorite son in the April primary pledged to President Johnson, already has released his delegation Byrnes said his view of the law was that this could be done.

Some Wisconsin supporters of Sen. Barry Goldwater are concerned that the state might be in a position of missing being a part of a Goldwater nomination if first ballot votes must be cast for the favorite son winner of the primary. Most estimates are that at least half of the 30 Wisconsin delegates would vote for Goldwater if released.

Mexico City Hit By Sharp Quake

MEXICO CITY (AP) — A sharp earthquake hit Mexico City early today, and all lights in the center of the capital went out.

It was the sharpest quake Mexico City has experienced since 1957.

Three minor earthquakes were felt Sunday in northern Sonora and Baja California, in northwest Mexico, but no casualties or damage was reported.

Electric power was restored quickly in many parts of the city, but some areas remained dark.

Many people were frightened and ran into the streets.

In the 1957 earthquake 66 persons were killed and there was considerable damage.

Telephone lines to other areas of Mexico were down, and there was no immediate way of telling whether other areas were hit.

Large crowds, mostly tourists in night attire, poured from hotels.

Polish Paper Praises Kennedy 'Bridge' Plan

WARSAW, Poland (AP) — Robert F. Kennedy's bid for Polish initiative to improve U.S.-Soviet relations won approval Sunday from the Polish Communist party newspaper.

Trybunalada hailed Kennedy's "emphasis on building bridges between nations," but scolded the American attorney general for "notoriously being late" for appointments with Polish leaders and for speaking to crowds from the roofs of cars.

Ike's Brother To Nominate Gov. Scranton

Candidate Asserts
Ex-President Lauds
Milton's Decision

CHICAGO (AP) — Gov. William Scranton of Pennsylvania announced today that Dr. Milton Eisenhower, brother of the former president, will nominate Scranton at the Republican National Convention next week.

Scranton opened a news conference with this statement: "I am delighted and pleased to announce that Dr. Milton Eisenhower will nominate me for president at the Republican National Convention in San Francisco. Gen. Eisenhower knows about this and is very pleased about it. The general said that was the best news he heard yet."

Scranton spoke with reporters early in a fast two-day appeal for Illinois support built around the civil rights issue.

Scranton opened a last-ditch campaign in the home state of Abraham Lincoln. He sought to head off a first-ballot nomination of his rival, Sen. Barry Goldwater of Arizona at the GOP convention.

4 Wounded in Race Rioting

32 Negroes Jailed
In Texas During
Violence at Lake

TEXARKANA, Tex. (AP) — A lakeside racial melee Sunday left four persons wounded by gunfire, and 32 Negroes jailed on charges ranging from inciting a riot to assault with intent to murder.

The violence erupted when Negroes swam in Lake Texarkana near here for the first time in large numbers since the passage of the civil rights bill. They were confronted with disgruntled and then angry whites. Whites left the beach when a group of Negroes began swimming.

Negroes Jailed

The Cass County sheriff's office at Linden, where the Negroes were transferred, said Clifford Williams, 21-year-old Negro, was charged with assault with intent to murder.

Most of the others including five women, were charged with inciting a riot, a sheriff's deputy said.

The Negroes, most from Arkansas, were jailed in lieu of $1,000 bond each set by Judge Wayne Brown.

One white man and three Negroes were wounded in the racial outburst.

Lake Texarkana is five miles west of this northeastern Texas city on the Arkansas border.

Some Negroes had swum in the lake previously without major incident.

Holiday Traffic Fatalities Set Record at 486

9 Persons Killed
On State's Highways
Over Long Weekend

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The nation's traffic deaths during the Fourth of July weekend hit a record toll for a three-day observance of the holiday.

The Associated Press count of deaths on the highway from 6 p.m. Thursday to midnight, local time Sunday was 486. Be-lated reports were expected to increase the total.

The heavy death toll compared to the previous high of 442, set in a three-day Independence Day holiday period in 1960.

There was a sharp increase in fatalities in the last 24 hours of the 78-hour holiday period, with more than 175 deaths reported.

9 Die in State

The National Safety Council had estimated the traffic deaths would total between 450 and 550. The council, until Sunday, had been hopeful that the final total would be below its pre-holiday estimate. But with millions of motorists homeward bound from resorts and vacations, the death rate rose far above the earlier pace.

Nine persons died on Wisconsin highways during the long Independence Day weekend, raising Wisconsin's 1964 traffic toll to 482, compared with 396 on this day a year ago.

Henry Gauthier Jr., 19, of New Auburn was injured fatally Saturday when his car went out of control as he was passing another auto on Highway 70 between Oshkosh and Winter.

Lawrence Bushie, 18, died Sunday of injuries received Saturday evening in a car-train crash at a North Western Railway crossing in Manitowish. He had moved to Manitowish from his home in Iron River, Mich., last week to look for a job.

Shawano Man Killed

Paul O. Miller, 71, of Shawano was killed Saturday night in the collision of his car and another just south of Shawano.

Wayne Vander Gailan, 34, of rural Juneau died Sunday of injuries received Saturday night when his car left Dodge County Trunk G about three miles south of Beaver Dam.

Darlene Porch, 8, of Milwaukee was killed Saturday night in a three-car crash in Walworth County. The collision occurred on Highway 10.

California Fire Under Control

LOS ANGELES (AP) — A raging, wind-driven fire that whipped across 20 miles of canyons, grasslands, foothills and mountains has been battled to a standstill. Only smoking devastation remains where it raged for four days.

The blaze, Southern California's first major fire of 1964, claimed no lives, no homes and inflicted no serious injuries.

But it blackened 12,800 acres, mostly in the beautiful Angeles National Forest.

Johnson Drafting New Program for Congress

Record Thus Far Pleases President

JOHNSON CITY, Tex. (AP) — President Johnson is "highly pleased and gratified" at Congress' record, but he is cooking up new proposals he feels will move the country toward his concept of a "Great Society."

Johnson believes enactment of the sweeping civil rights law has cleared the way for tackling such problems as metropolitan area growth; the growth of interlocking federal, state and local responsibilities and finances; health, education, and rearing the governmental structure to an age of science and technology.

Plans Being Drafted

White House sources relayed Johnson's views to newsmen covering his holiday stay here and said the chief executive already has a number of task forces at work on long-term planning.

Until the various studies are finished, the President is not about to put a price tag on the proposals that ultimately may be submitted to Congress for new legislation.

Johnson has been trying to project the image of an economy-minded administration. But he is represented as feeling that while the people want sound and prudent fiscal management, they also want the government to respond with compassion to human needs.

Possible "Rights" Changes

The President has not ruled out the possibility of further civil rights legislation, but no determination can be made, he feels, until the effects of the bill he signed last Thursday are assessed.

In the foreign field, Johnson is claiming to be well satisfied about the transition of new American leadership in South Vietnam. His conferences with Greek and Turkish leaders on the critical Cyprus problem and his first meeting with a Latin American chief of state, President Francisco Orlich of Costa Rica.

When he gets back to the White House — it is not known when the President will end his Texas holiday — Johnson intends to talk with both outside experts and heads of various government departments and agencies about long-term planning in the various domestic fields which he feels need attention.

Plane Crashes Into Mountain, 5 Crewmen Die

KETCHIKAN, Alaska (AP) — All five crewmen aboard a twin-engine Coast Guard search plane were killed when they crashed into a mountain, only a minute or two from their base at near-by Annette Island.

The burned and battered wreckage was spotted from the air late Sunday. It was mashed into the woods 2,000 feet above the Pacific Ocean and only 200 feet from the top of Dall Head on Gravina Island.

The Coast Guard reported there was no chance that any of the fliers survived. None was listed as from Wisconsin.

The last word from the amphibious Albatross plane — returning in the dark and murky drizzle Friday night, after a search for a grounded fishing boat — was a request to turn on landing strip lights at Annette Air Station.

6 Drownings In Wisconsin Over Holidays

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Water accidents in Wisconsin took six lives during the Fourth of July holiday period, including a little girl who drowned in her yard.

Tammy Schultz, 20 months, drowned in a backyard swimming pool Sunday while her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Raymond F. Schultz of Milwaukee, were out buying a smaller pool for use by the younger children in the family. Tammy, who had been left in the care of older children, was found face down in a pool purchased Saturday.

Drowns After Collision

Cyril Gruber, 35-year-old cheesemaker of Plain, drowned Sunday night in Lake Wisconsin near Prairie du Sac when the boat he was operating figured in a collision with another. Columbia County authorities directed a search for the body.

Leroy Kage, 38, of the town of Rib Falls in Marathon County, drowned in Nulles Lake near Medford while fishing with friends Saturday night.

Grenade Fails to Explode at Saigon Embassy of U. S.

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP) — A Viet Cong terrorist threw a grenade at the U. S. Embassy in Saigon today but it failed to explode.

The grenade was hidden in a loaf of bread that the terrorist tore open before throwing the grenade. In his excitement he pulled the detonating mechanism from the grenade instead of just the pin and it did not go off.

An embassy spokesman said Vietnamese police cordoned off the boulevard leading past the embassy.

Vietnamese embassy drivers who were witnesses said the bomb was thrown by a Vietnamese dressed in white trousers and a shirt. He got away.

Americans inside the embassy were ordered to stay in until a thorough search was made of the area. Then they were allowed to go home for lunch.

The incident took place less than 24 hours before the arrival of the new U.S. ambassador to Viet Nam, Gen. Maxwell D. Taylor.

Police used tear gas, dogs and One police officer suffered a park cattle prods to break up Fourth of July riots by youths at five places from coast to coast.

About 200 persons were arrested. Several officers and rioters were injured.

The riots occurred at Indian Lake, near Bellefontaine, Ohio; Newport, R.I.; Garnett, Kan.; West Yellowstone, Mont.; and Pleasanton, Calif.

"Like Keg of Dynamite" At Indian Lake, an estimated 5,000 to 10,000 beer-drinking college youths staged boisterous demonstrations Friday and Saturday nights.

"These kids were like a keg of dynamite waiting for something to set them off," a sheriff said by bombs.

More than 50 young men were arrested on the two nights. Tear gas was used to quell the riot.

Authorities said firecrackers were thrown into the crowds, injuring several youths, probably persons while helping to herd the sheriff's leg.

STRANGE TEA PARTY

Dear Louise: While visiting out of town, my hostess and I were invited to a tea. When we arrived, the party hostess announced, "Those who prefer coffee will please come to the dining room." We were tea drinkers, so about half the crowd sat in the living room to await our turn at the table. I murmured to my companion that this was truly an innovation and she answered, "Well, it seems to expedite matters. The refreshments included minced ham balls rolled in nuts and cheese and kept hot in a chafing dish. Is this a new trend? I wish they wouldn't monkey (an inept word, but expressive) with the afternoon tea ritual."

Louise Davis Answers:

Such expediting matters at an afternoon tea doesn't make sense. It might be a trend in your hostess' town, but no where else. And it isn't apt to spread. Separating the coffee from the tea drinkers and serving at different times is anything but hospitable. I'm sure it would have been just as simple to serve coffee at one end of the table and tea at the other and all at the same time. Then everyone could have sipped together for more enjoyment and pleasantness. It would have been more gracious on the part of the hostess. Leaving tea drinkers in the living room to wait for the coffee drinkers in the dining room was preposterous. The hot casserole dish was a strange thing to serve at an afternoon tea when lighter refreshments would have been more appropriate.

Retired Couple Advised to Keep Savings, Finance Home

BY MARY FEELEY

Dear Miss Feeley: My husband plans to retire soon and move to Florida. We have purchased a lot for $3,500 and plan to build a house for about $15,000, including furnishings. His pension is $6,000 a year and we have $5,000 in savings.

How much mortgage do you think we can afford and for how long a term. My husband is 50 years old.

G. D., Bronx, N.Y.

Dear G. D.: I think you'd be wise to keep that $5,000 in savings if you can. Allow about $1,500 for furnishings. Look into the possibility of assigning the property to the builder as the down payment. You can arrange for a mortgage through a local bank or lending institution in which you have confidence.

Your monthly payments would cost $68.79 for a mortgage for $10,000 at 5 1/2 per cent for 20 years or $71.65 for the same amount at 6 per cent for 20 years, depending on the terms you arranged. Since you'll have little expense for heating, and low taxation, you should be able to swing the project for around $100 of the $500 monthly retirement income.

Dear Miss Feeley: Would like some advice on clothing allowances for children, to cover coats, shoes, everything.

My son is 16, and I was thinking of setting aside $15 monthly for his clothing. He'll be a high school junior next year, has a $3 weekly allowance, but cannot work till he is actually 16 next month.

My daughter will be 20 in August and is now a sophomore in an eastern university. Her summer job money will go mostly toward her education and summer expenses. It seems to me that $25 monthly for her

Grandmother Worries About 'Lazy' Parents

BY JOSEPH G. MOLNER, M.D.

Dear Dr. Molner: I have two granddaughters, one a year old and the other 28 months. When the older girl was a year old the young mother decided it was time for her to feed herself. She put the baby's food in front of her and let her eat as best she could, which ended up in a horrible mess, and I don't think the child got enough to eat.

Am I wrong in believing children should be fed until they want to do it themselves, which usually is gradual, and given easier foods first? Is there a certain age when their bodies and minds co-ordinate? Am I too old-fashioned and worrying for nothing?

These parents are now threatening to do the same to the smaller child. I am afraid the children will end up with impaired health because the young people of today are too lazy to care for their poor innocent children.

MRS. D. E.

Slow down just a little minute, Worried Grandmother. Let's see if there's anything to worry about.

There isn't any set rule as to when babies are ready to feed themselves. About 12 or 14 months is average—some start sooner, some later. Messy? Sure, they're messy. So mothers clean 'em up. Remember? You don't mention that the child is either sickly or underweight. That would indicate that this baby like any other, will eat if she's hungry. Could it be that the "not eating" is something that happens when somebody else is around? Such as well—Grandma? Could be. Kids are show-offs.

My personal preference is for easing a baby into self-feeding, but I don't think there's much of a health aspect involved.

Unless there is some gross neglect, I don't think we're justified in accusing young people of being "too lazy." In fact, sometimes all we do is show our age by complaining about the younger generation.

As a matter of fact, there were times when I wasn't sure my own children had enough sense to come in out of the rain, but now that they are adults I'm beginning to see traces of their early training paying off, albeit they have to adapt what they learned to conditions which now are quite different from those that existed when they were children—and much more different from conditions when I was a boy.

Relax and enjoy your grandchildren. And if they make a "horrible mess" as they learn to eat, you don't have to do the cleaning up!

Dear Dr. Molner: What causes osteomyelitis? Could it be some childhood disease like scarlet fever? What can be done for it.

Dear Dr. Molner: I am 61 and was told I could not have a Pap test because of lack of natural secretions. Is this true? If so are there other tests?

D. M. G.

Women can have the Pap test at any age. It is a matter of gently scraping the tissue of the cervix and vaginal wall. (There is no discomfort.) This does not depend on secretions. If any abnormal cells are disclosed, additional tests on the order of biopsy or D. and C. (dilation and curettage) are made.

Plan Duds For Figure

When buying a pattern, always keep your good and bad points in mind; also choose simple and uncluttered with lines that take the eye up and down from head to toe without a break. Keep accessories small.

Tall Slim: You can wear almost anything. Don't give yourself a long beanpole look but be proud of your tall, slim figure. Dramatize it with horizontal lines such as yokes or tiers that add width, large prints, plaids, stripes, contrasting colors, fabrics with surface interest, wide belts, two-piece belted suits, deep dolman tal. A coat dress with two rows of buttons, closely spaced down center front will give a slimming illusion without accentuating height. Never wear wide or contrasting belts, contrasting tops and skirts, huge collars, sleeves, pockets or ruffles and frills.

Tall Full: Choose clothes that decrease width from side to side. Wear vertical lines (that run up and down), not horizontal. A coat dress with two rows of buttons, closely spaced down center front will give a slimming illusion without accentuating height. Never wear wide or contrasting belts, contrasting tops and skirts, huge collars, sleeves, pockets or ruffles and frills.

Short Slim: Though slight and slim, you must follow many of the rules for Tall Full and Short Full. But you can do more daring things because of your weight. Always wear vertical lines to give height. Wear empire and princess silhouettes for a long, unbroken line. Stay away from extremes such as very full skirts, oversize details, etc. Pencil slim skirts are excellent. Do not wear wide or contrasting belts even though slim. Wear any narrow belts. Keep details simple, with a generally uncluttered look. Keep the eye going from head to toe, up and down, but never across. You, too, must be sure that jacket sleeves are shorter or longer than jacket length. Keep accessories small.

Theater Worker Lists Increase for Musicals

Attic, Peninsula Players Both Looking For Musicians for Respective Productions

BY JINGO

Once summer theater meant the pastime of actors, electricians, painters, carpenters and those who sew as well as the dedicated theatergoers who braved heat, wind and mosquito for a couple of hours of escape into the world of fancy or drama.

That was all changed when the musical comedy and musical drama reared its profitable head on the horizon and started a stampede on the circuit.

To be sure, the above named categories still are in full swing, but the list is not all inclusive now. Now the list must include dancers, singers and musicians.

Steve Schultz over at Riverside Players called for his pipes and got a full house of aspirants whom he quickly turned into an orchestra after three try-outs. His colleague Ken Anderson had to extend his singing try-outs before he could choose among his wealth for his leading lady singers and musicians—special.

However, at present writing, no ly a drummer. He won't be word has been received as to able to make use of the talent his luck in finding his leading Schultz and Anderson have unman— who doesn't really sing covered since his production of but just sort of talks in tune "My Fair Lady" opens two days before and runs through the.

The Peninsula Players and Riverside production Crane will Attic Theater report they are take an earful—and eye-ful of not having luck equal to the his singing aspirants at 10 a.m. July 8 at the Theater-in-a-Garden at Fish Creek.

Afghanistan and Pakistan Trying to Improve Relations

KABUL, Afghanistan (AP)—Pakistan and Afghanistan have agreed to seek an improvement in relations, the two nations announced Thursday after a meeting between King Mohammad Zahir Shah and Pakistan President Mohammad Ayub Khan.

Pakistan and Afghanistan have long feuded over the northwest frontier area, which Fathan tribesmen inhabiting it and the Afghan government have demanded be given independence as the state of Push-loonistan.

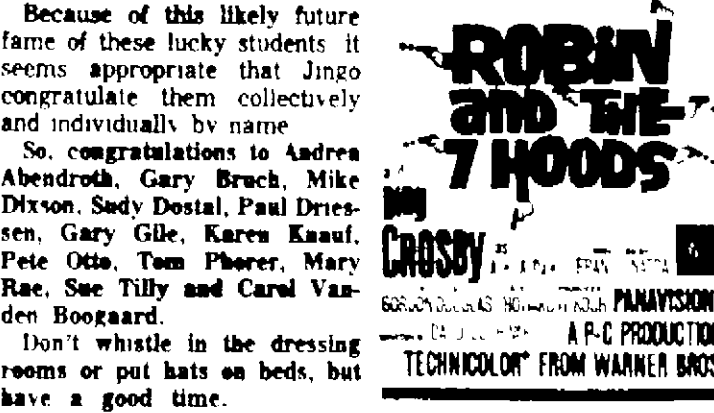

Recent auditions conducted by the Attic for Workshop members resulted in the selection of a dozen youthful enthusiasts to study and work with the Attic during the season.

With the fine schedule of courses planned for the workshop it is likely that the youngsters participating will come out of it with considerable knowledge and be in great demand for theatrical work in their individual circles for some time to come.

Because of this likely future fame of these lucky students it seems appropriate that Jingo congratulate them collectively and individually by name.

So, congratulations to Andrea Abendroth, Gary Bruch, Mike Dixon, Sady Dostal, Paul Driesen, Gary Gile, Karen Knauf, Pete Otto, Tom Phorer, Mary Rae, Sue Tilly and Carol Vanden Boogaard.

Don't whistle in the dressing rooms or put hats on beds, but have a good time.

Law Against Discrimination Passed in 1875

Was Declared as Unconstitutional By Supreme Court

BY DAVID LAWRENCE

WASHINGTON — "We have waited 100 years!" This lament has been frequently expressed in recent months by the proponents of the new "civil rights" law. But have these 100 years really been characterized by indifference to the problem of racial discrimination?

The new statute is today "the law of the land." It is not, however, as is generally supposed, an innovation. Congress passed in 1875 a law barring discrimination in public places, but it was declared unconstitutional by the Supreme Court of the United States in 1883. That decision could not be used as a basis for a federal law banning discrimination in "inns, public conveyances on land or water, theaters, and other places of public amusement." The court said the amendment was designed only to forbid discriminatory action by the states themselves. But the same majority decision hinted that the court would not pass judgment in advance as to whether another provision of the Constitution, known as the "commerce clause," could be invoked by Congress to regulate "rights in public conveyances passing from one state to another."

Such an approach is being tried now to justify certain sections of the new law, though other sections again rely on the Fourteenth Amendment in the Jones, Hoot Gibson, Ken Maynard, William Boyd, Tom Mix, Gary Cooper, Roy Rogers and John Wayne.

As for the Fourteenth Amendment—from which the doctrine of "equal protection of the laws" was applied by the Supreme Court in 1954 as a constitutional justification for ordering public-school desegregation—the tragic truth is that the amendment itself was never legally ratified.

History books tell the sad story of how duly elected members of the House and Senate from the south were denied their seats in Congress, and how the federal government sent its troops to ratify, that the people must fall into the hands of state legislatures to decide only what's best for the people—not necessarily what the amendment in accordance with the Constitution and the precedents of the past.

Cause Bitterness
Inevitably, however, law and edicts based on measures of doubtful constitutionality stir up bitterness. Integration leaders in recent years have spoken of the "slumbering conscience" of the nation in failing to deal with the "civil rights" question, but they never mention the sin or the crime which has been the basis of much of the ill feeling over the race problem. It is never too late to confess a sin or atone for a crime and the conscience of the American people has indeed been slumbering for nearly 100 years over the fraud and military coercion applied in allegedly "ratifying" the Fourteenth Amendment.

The appeal for conciliation is growing today, and even the proponents of the new "civil rights" law are beginning to concede that conformity by coercion may not work and that a spirit of good will is essential. To produce such an atmosphere, however, it is more than ever essential that all doubts of constitutionality should be resolved by adopting in the prescribed way amendments to the Constitution. If the "civil rights" concept is as universally popular as is claimed, it should not take long to bring about the adoption of the necessary amendments to the Constitution that would forbid all racial discrimination in the use of public facilities within federal or state jurisdiction.

Reading Authorities Backing Phonics Plan Set National Meeting

Reading authorities supporting the phonics method of teaching, reading in elementary schools are scheduled to meet in New York Aug. 5 for the third annual conference of the Reading Research Foundation.

Principal speaker will be Dr. Max Rafferty, superintendent of instruction in California.

The foundation was formed in 1961 "to restore the alphabet (phonetics) to its proper place as the basis of elementary reading instruction in English."

Correction

A headline in Friday's Post-Crescent should have stated "Appleton Youth Gets One-Year Term on Misdemeanor," instead of "Term on Misdemeanor Charges."

The story, concerning David A. Meyer, 18, 711 E. Dennison St., stated Meyer was found guilty of contributing to the delinquency of a minor and sentenced to a year in the Outagamie County jail.

The story incorrectly said he was sentenced to a concurrent six-month jail term for theft. It should have stated for violating term of probation on a theft charge.

Storms Bring Total Up June Six Hours Short Of Setting Dry Record

BY C. V. ARDIS JR.

With less than six hours remaining in the calendar month, June was about to be the driest on record since Wisconsin Michigan Power Company's cooperative weather observing station for the U. S. Weather Bureau was established on Nov. 1, 1926.

Then a series of thunderstorms beginning at 6:20 p.m. June 30 added 1.12 inches, bringing the month's total to 1.67 inches, the second driest June on record. Normal June rainfall is 3.98 inches.

Temperatures were quite erratic during the month, although the monthly mean of 67.8 which was 0.8 above normal. The first four days of the month were very cool with daily highs in the 60s and overnight lows in the lower 40s. The last six days were very hot, as the mercury climbed in the 90s. The month's high of 95 was observed June 26, 29 and 30. Normally, two days with temperatures of 90 and above can be expected in June — this year there were of 52 mph June 9 was one of four days when the wind velocity exceeded 35 mph. Thunderstorms were observed on three days. There were five other days when lightning in the clouds overhead or in the distance was reported. There were seven overcast days in June.

The annual heating degree-day season (July 1 to June 30) ended with a total of 7,024 degree days, 1.131 or 14 per cent less than last year. A normal season accumulates 7,600 degree days. The wind velocity averaged 10.4 mph with the prevailing direction southwest. A peak gust 72.3 and 3.00 inches of rain.

1963 Appleton Assessments Don't Balance

Auditors Say New Record-Keeping System at Fault

Appleton's special assessment records for 1963 do not balance because of a record-keeping system in effect in recent years, according to E. A. Dettman and Wauwatosa; Harold H. Seaman Co., certified public accountants and Mrs. A. Lester Slocum, both conducting the audit of the city's books for 1963.

Copies of the annual audit were filed last week with city officials and members of the common council.

In its report to the mayor and council, the accounting firm said it was unable to establish from subsidiary (original) records the total amount of special assessments receivable as shown on the balance sheet.

A card system has been used in the past for making the original record of the special assessment charges when determined by the city engineering division.

The system was in effect before the finance department was created and a director appointed a year ago.

Detailed Cards

With reference to the special assessment balance sheet, the auditors commented:

"Detailed cards are kept for each property assessed, with the balance due by year to be placed on the tax roll.

"Test checks indicated that there is a difference between the detail records and the book control amount.

"The actual difference has not been determined.

"The city's finance department is in the process of checking these records in more detail at the present time."

Finance Director Donald Hassler said today that under the city's special assessment setup, it is difficult to maintain control.

This was pointed out when the auditors were unable to reconcile the difference between detail records and the actual book control.

"We are in the process of working out a new system to provide the necessary control," Hassler said.

Port Ceremony Plans Underway

Preliminary discussion of plans to dedicate the new Outagamie County airport began today, but the county airport committee took no formal action.

The field would be dedicated shortly after its completion, expected sometime in October.

Committee members are considering speakers for the program, along with a printed brochure describing the new facility.

Surprise Service Conducted Sunday

Rev. R. E. Ziesemer Celebrates His 50th Year in Lutheran Ministry

Fifty years in the ministry gift of $1,500 from Mt. Olive Appleton — St. Paul and St. Matthew.

Pastor Ziesemer, a native of Kenosha, assumed his first parish at St. Matthew Lutheran Church July 5, 1914.

There was no ordination service, because the practice was not as common 50 years ago as it is today.

The new minister preached his first sermon July 12, 1914, in German, at St. Matthew.

The following year in February he was commissioned to start an English mission church to join the two German-speaking and preaching Wisconsin Synod churches of the period in

A reception in the church parlors followed the service. More than 600 guests attended.

Helping to celebrate Pastor Ziesemer's anniversary were his three children. In addition to Pastor and Mrs. Richard Ziesemer and family, they included Mr. and Mrs. Elroy Spitzer and Mrs. Mincola, N.Y., and Paul Ziesemer, Kenosha.

Pastor Sommer presented Pastor Ziesemer with a gift of 18 visiting pastors of the Fox Valley Conference of the Northern District of the Wisconsin Synod.

Pastor Sommer is visitor of the conference.

The president of the congregation, Carlyle Schmidt, presented Pastor Ziesemer with a collection of prepared broadcasts to be used by local radio stations in time of emergency.

The broadcasts are in three categories — public service education, announced siren blowing and emergency-bound in a loose-leaf binder, and color keyed for quick reference.

"These are to be used only under the situations and times they are designed for," Penney said. "Any deviation could seriously impair the intended effect and purpose of these programs."

Threatening 'Everyone' Man Allegedly Pointed Rifle at Sheriff Spice

A 27-year-old Potter man was window with the butt of the rifle. LaFond pointed the weapon through the window, Spice said, and then there was a noise "that sounded like a shot."

The sheriff said he was not sure the rifle had been fired at him.

Left House The man's wife then spoke over the loud speaker, and returned to the first floor of the home where he broke out another window, and again pointed the weapon through the broken pane.

Finally, Spice said, the man left the house and started to leave the house. As he did so, he tripped, and Spice was able to disarm him.

The elder LaFond told Spice that his son had been drinking, and when he had objected when his father did not want him to drive a car, "I had plenty of chances to shoot him," Spice said, "but in the 17 years of law enforcement I've never shot at anyone."

Threatens Sheriff "I drove into the yard, and ward the sheriff. As he did so, he tripped, and Spice was able to disarm him."

When I started toward the house, the man pointed a gun at me and said, 'Take another step, did not want him to drive a car. Johnson will talk on "The Count-and you'll be the ex-sheeriff."

Spice said he talked more about the PA system, and the 17 years of law enforcement I've never shot at anyone."

New London Farmer-NFO Organizer Loses Court Test

Co-op Refused Milk Shipments From Robert Matz; Action Upheld

A rural New London farmer longer ship to the co-op and was — an organizer for the National Farmers Organization (NFO):

who had his milk shipments refused by a co-op in 1962 — has again lost a major court test of national significance.

Judge Raymond Dohr of Outagamie County Court, Branch 3, ruled in favor of the Outagamie Producers Co-operative of Black Creek and against Robert F. Matz, Town of Maple Creek, in a six-page decision.

Matz said today he received a copy of the decision and would meet with his attorney in Appleton. "As far as I know right now, I think we will appeal," he said.

During the course of the dragged-out litigation, injunctions were issued against both parties in the action.

Restraining Order Matz obtained an order forcing the co-operative to continue hauling his milk, and Outagamie Producers Co-operative had the court restrain the farmer from any further NFO activities or attempts to organize the co-op's membership.

In his unprecedented decision last week, Judge Dohr ruled that no valid contract existed between Matz and the co-operative, and dismissed both injunctions.

The judge noted Matz had been shipping milk to the co-op under terms of "an alleged contract" dated Oct. 14, 1958. In it, Matz agreed to sell, and the co-operative buy, all milk and cream produced by the plaintiff until the terms of his $2,237.50 loan from the Bank of Black Creek had been repaid.

Judge Dohr said evidence showed a portion of the contract entitled, "Agreement for purchase and sale of milk," was completely filled out and signed by Arthur Jepson of the Outagamie Producers Co-operative. However, the line for the seller's signature was blank.

Didn't Sign Agreement "In other words, Matz did not sign the agreement for sale," the court ruled.

The contract was prepared by the Bank of Black Creek for the purpose of receiving $37.50 monthly until the loan was satisfied.

The record also disclosed that in October of 1962 Matz was an organizer for the NFO, along with Fred Triplett of Missouri, an NFO representative, met with the co-op management and suggested a method by which the price of milk could be raised.

After the meeting the co-op's board of directors changed its by-laws so that anyone joining the another farm organization which encouraged members not to ship milk to a certain plant, or to the plant operating the co-operative to which they belonged, would be asked to surrender voting rights.

"When Matz learned of this action, he notified the co-operative fieldman that he would no longer ship milk to the co-op and was — an organizer for the National Farmers Organization (NFO):

Byrnes Seeks Re-Election To Congress

GOP Representative Lists Candidacy, Files Papers Today

WASHINGTON — Rep. John W. Byrnes, Green Bay Republican, announced today he is a candidate for re-election in Wisconsin's Eighth Congressional district.

Byrnes, one of the top GOP leaders in the House of Representatives, is seeking his 11th term in office. Nomination papers on his behalf were submitted today at the secretary of state's office in Madison.

Byrnes said today he is planning an extensive personal campaign, backed by a strong organization effort.

He is now preparing to leave here for San Francisco where he will lead the Wisconsin delegation at the Republican national convention next week. Byrnes became the "favorite son" choice of Wisconsin Republicans in the April presidential primary and later was chosen chairman of the delegation at its organizational meeting.

Elected in 1944 Byrnes was first elected to Congress in 1944, and has risen to national prominence during his 20-year term.

He is the senior GOP member of the Ways and Means Committee, the party's spokesman on tax and fiscal matters, is chairman of the House Republican Policy Committee and is a member of the Joint Republican House-Senate leadership group.

Before his election to Congress, Byrnes served four years in the State Senate where he was Judiciary Committee chairman and majority floorleader.

Byrnes, a lifelong Green Bay resident, attended that city's parochial and public schools and received his bachelor of arts and law degrees from the University of Wisconsin.

He is married and has three sons and three daughters.

Two Xavier High Bands Will Perform Tuesday At Pierce Park Concert

Two bands from Xavier High School will open this summer's series of band concerts in Pierce Park at 8 p.m. Tuesday.

The Xavier units will be guest performers. The Concerts are presented by the Appleton City Band. The initially scheduled concert by the city band for last Tuesday was rained out.

Performing Tuesday will be the Xavier prep and concert bands. Selections will include the overture to "The Music Man," a tuba solo by Michael Gregorius, "Music for Young Americans" and the theme from "Lawrence of Arabia."

Xavier's concert band was selected in a national contest to perform at the annual convention of the National Catholic Music Educators' Association in St. Louis this spring.

Ohio Man, 38, Run Over by Freight Train

A 38-year-old Ohio man died Sunday morning when he was run over by a Chicago and North Western train in Appleton.

Engineer Clifford T. Erickson, North Fond du Lac, said Harold E. Jennings, 38, of Cambridge, Ohio, was lying between the rails when the northbound freight ran over him near Division Street.

Erickson said Jennings lifted his head, apparently hearing the train draw near, but made no attempt to get off the tracks.

The engineer said he was unable to stop the train before the locomotive and nine cars had run over the man. The 37-car train was going about 25-miles per hour, Erickson said.

Outagamie County Coroner Bernard Kemps said Jennings' parents in Cambridge said he was last home about a year ago.

Jennings had a sister in Milwaukee. The body will be shipped to Cambridge for funeral rites.

Cooler Not So Cool A malfunction in an air conditioner brought Appleton firemen to the Waigreen Drug Store, 210 W. College Ave. Sunday.

Firemen said the wires in the apparatus in the second floor mezzanine were damaged by the fire.

A clause in a 1954 revenue bond floated for the water department stipulates that no other bond issues can be undertaken until the original 25-year bonds are paid up.

The city has a survey underway to determine whether to go to Lake Michigan or Lake Winnebago for a new water supply.

Should it be unable to bond, other methods would have to be found to finance a lake-tapping project.

Hassler said he contacted the Chicago firm Friday and it indicated the phraseology of the 1954 bond issue spoke for itself.

However, the consultants said they would prepare a written opinion for city officials and have it ready sometime this week.

Hassler hopes to have it by Thursday night when members of the common council's finance committee meet.

'Clown' Dunked, Hurt When He Loses Balance

Lee Hooyman, 23, was taken to St. Elizabeth Hospital Saturday night after he injured his left leg at the Appleton Civic Celebration at Pierce Park.

Hooyman was the clown in the "Dunk the Clown" booth at the Jaycee-sponsored celebration. He said he lost his balance when he was dropped into the water.

His condition was reported as good today.

What Price Progress? The cutting down of this tree and 21 others like it is one price. The tree, felled early today, and its companions stood for more than 40 years to the south of St. Elizabeth Hospital. The trees are being cut to make room for an addition to the south wing of the hospital. (Post-Crescent Photo)

Tri-City Boat Club Objects to 25 Foot Clearance Policy

Complaint Is Registered With Engineers

BY GERALD W. ODOM
Post-Crescent Staff Writer

MENASHA — Members of the Tri-City Boating Club of the Fox Cities have gone on record with a letter to the U. S. Army Corps of Engineers opposing any reduction in elevation of bridges across the Fox River.

Members not only opposed reduction in elevation but suggested elevations of bridges be made higher than the current 50 feet height above high water mark.

The U. S. Army Corps of Engineers in early June announced a study would be made to consider the feasibility of lowering the elevations of bridges to 25 feet at low water. Recommendations and suggestions were sought from local municipal and private groups.

Councils of Menasha and Appleton and planning director Eugene Franchetti of the Fox Valley Regional Planning Commission sent letters to the corps recommending the lowering of bridge heights.

They feel the valley and local government could benefit through a saving in money with construction of new bridges. Members of the Tri-City Boat Club feel any lowering of elevation would hinder navigation.

The time limit for comments, suggestions or objections on a new policy was extended to July 31 from June 30 last week following a letter to the corps from First District Assemblyman William A. Steiger, Oshkosh.

Cancel Caravan To County Fair

Traffic Congestion In Annual Event Cited by C of C

Too many cars in too small a space at one time has been cited as the reason the Appleton Chamber of Commerce is discontinuing its annual caravan to the Outagamie County Fair.

A virtual traffic jam occurs when the great number of cars from Appleton reaches Seymour and causes lengthy delays as the caravan proceeds through the city to the county fairgrounds, a chamber spokesman said today.

Elaborate arrangements required for getting the caravan underway also were said to be a factor in the decision to cancel the caravan which has opened activities for "Appleton Night at the County Fair" since its conception several years ago.

From an initial venture of some 200 cars, the caravan grew into a more than 600-vehicle operation in 1963.

Banners for cars and pennants for radio antennae are being issued by the chamber and it is hoped that the illusion of a caravan will be achieved when cars bearing them converge on Seymour, July 16.

The decision to eliminate the caravan as part of the Appleton Night activities was made by the "Appleton Night at the County Fair" committee of the chamber.

No objections had been lodged by the Appleton police or county sheriff's departments which would have charge of directing traffic, the spokesman said.

Severe Storm Cuts Power In Waupaca

WAUPACA — A severe thunderstorm of about a half-hour's duration early today resulted in five successive fire calls to the Waupaca Fire Department.

Most of the calls were for tree limbs falling across power lines and knocking them down. Power to some areas of the city was cut off at 9 a.m. and had not been restored until several hours later.

In Appleton the storm brought .28 inch of rain in about two hours. The storm appeared to be one of widely scattered showers that began moving into the state after midnight.

Widely scattered thundershowers occurred in Wisconsin today in the aftermath of a long holiday weekend in which the weather was just about perfect.

The showers began moving into the state after midnight and were reported at Eau Claire, Madison, Beloit-Rockford area, Wausau, Stevens Point and the Hurley-Ironwood area with a few drops in Milwaukee.

State Department Head To Speak at Oshkosh

OSHKOSH — An official of the U. S. State Department will speak at an open meeting at 10:45 a.m. Monday.

The official is Muna Lee, cultural officer, Bureau of Inter-American Affairs. She will speak at the Wisconsin University - Oshkosh Little Theatre on the subject "The Cultural Approach — Another Way in International Relations."

Miss Lee is in Oshkosh to participate in the WU-O workshop on Latin America directed by James Hillestad of the university staff. The Monday talk is open to the public and university classes other than the workshop group.

First Place Winner in Float Competition in the annual Venetian Festival Parade was the entry of Riverside Players for the second year in a row. The theme of their entry this year was from Peter Pan.

Many View Twin Cities' Venetian Event

BY MICK BURKE
Post-Crescent Staff Writer

NEENAH — Gliding silently by, as aerial displays and salutes were discharged in the background, the 11th annual Venetian Parade passed in review before a packed crowd at Riverside Park Independence Day evening.

The pageant started with an aerial bomb and the national anthem, and was led by the police cruiser carrying the queens representing the Twin Cities, and their attendants.

The first place trophy was presented to the Riverside Players for their entry of "Mermaid Lagoon," a scene from the play Peter Pan, complete with waterfalls and characters from the world of fantasy. First honorable mention went to the Young Adults Club with "South Pacific," and the third place trophy was won by the AAUW for "Ocean Fantasy."

Politics to fantasy were depicted by the floats in the procession. Wilbur Renk, Republican candidate for the U. S. Senate, passed by the crowd in a float stating "Winnebago Land needs a working Congressman."

The Chamber of Commerce entered a float announcing Prospector Days in the Twin Cities. "PT 109," a replica of the famous torpedo boat commanded by the late President John F. Kennedy, was entered by the float with a setting from the stage play, "South Pacific" with native dancing girls and sailors along a sandy palm lined beach. The Jayettes of Neenah-Menasha drew applause with their float showing a winter scene of Lake Winnebago, consisting of a fishing shanty and a nice fish being pulled through the ice.

The parade capped a day of picnic activities with rides, concessions and entertainment at Riverside Park, marked by perfect weather for the celebration. The attendance during the day and night program was estimated at more than 80,000.

Neenah Girl's Eye Injured By Firecracker

NEENAH — Gail Vandenberg, 14, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Vandenberg, 558 Belmont Ave., received injury to her left eye Saturday when a firecracker discharged in a tent in which she and four companions were spending the night.

Patty Rasmussen, Mary Larsen, and Sue Spanbauer were talking to four youths outside the tent located in the back yard of William E. Benoit, 552 Belmont St., about midnight as Billie Jean Benoit and Miss Vandenberg were sleeping. One of the youths threw a firecracker into the tent. It apparently discharged near the face of Miss Vandenberg causing the injury, police said.

The girl was taken to Theda Clark Memorial Hospital for treatment. Her condition is reported satisfactory. Damage as a result of the accident is not known at this time, according to the hospital.

The youths have been ordered to the police station for questioning.

New Post Office Plans Approved

MENASHA — Preliminary plans for a 16,500 foot addition and remodeling of the existing Menasha Post Office have been approved by the General Services Administration, Jack Sloss, job captain for Grassott, Johnson, Wagner and Isley, Inc., Milwaukee, architects, said this morning.

Sloss said working drawings are now in process.

No basic changes were made to preliminary plans. Changes made were additional remodeling of the second floor of the post office, including repainting, ventilation and additional lighting.

Plans call for an addition of 16,500 square feet floor space to bring the total size of the post office to 31,700 square feet.

New construction will include a new full basement and new office and work room space. The present loading docks will be replaced.

Police Investigate Theft of Boat Sunday

MENASHA — The theft of a 14-foot boat from Alfred Becher, 118 First St., Menasha, is being investigated today by police.

Becher said the boat had been dragged ashore for repairs in his back yard and was taken sometime late Saturday or Sunday.

Set Hearing for Youth Charged With Stabbing

OSHKOSH — Acting Juvenile Judge Arnold J. Cane today set 9:30 a.m. Friday for a preliminary hearing in the case of a 17-year-old Oshkosh boy being held in the county jail's juvenile detention section for the alleged stabbing last Thursday morning of Mrs. Emil Koch, 60, Breeze-wood Lane, Route 1, Neenah.

The boy was apprehended Thursday afternoon in Neenah.

The 25-year-old native of the Dominican Republic doubled home two runs and scored the third as the Athletics climbed out of the cellar for only the second day in more than a month.

Jimenez has experienced as- sorted difficulties since his rookie season in 1962 when Ath- letics' owner Charles O. Finley ordered him to hit home runs. Threatened to Quit

His latest problem came early last month when the Athletics decided to ship him to the minors.

"I quit," the volatile Jimenez threatened "I will not report. I think I'm a better ball player than others they have on this club. I don't want to go back to the minors. I will go home first."

However, Jimenez agreed to report to Dallas of the Pacific Coast League, perhaps after re- calling home as he left in the spring. That's when the outfielder was fined $200 for reporting late to spring training.

"I have to fight in revolution," he said at the time, try- ing to explain his tardiness. And when then Manager Eddie Lopat noted a lack of bullet holes in him, Jimenez coun- tered:

"I too good a shot. They no get to me. There are no taxis. They no like taxis. They shoot at them. I have to walk to air- port, take back trails."

But Jimenez survived the re- volution and Dallas. In fact, al- though his batting average is a mediocre .241, he's hitting .283 since his return to Kansas City.

In other American League games Sunday, Minnesota bombed New York 9-2, Chicago shut out Cleveland 2-0 and 5-0. Detroit swept Washington 7-6 and 3-0 and Boston downed Los Angeles 9-6.

Pitcher John O'Donoghue and George Williams singled in the third before Jimenez dou- bled Rocky Colavito then sin- gled in Jimenez. Bob Johnson homered in the third for Balti- more. O'Donoghue gave up five other hits until he needed relief help from Wes Stock in the ninth.

Nicklaus Wins Whitemarsh Golf Tourney

Edges Player by One Shot; Palmer Places Third

WHITEMARSH, Pa. (AP) — "Congratulations Jack, you've won," a well wisher told Jack Nicklaus in the locker room at the Whitemarsh Valley Country Club Sunday.

Nicklaus eyed the visitor and inquired:

"Has anyone told Arnie?"

Arnold Palmer at that moment was playing the 17th hole and was three strokes behind Nicklaus, who had posted a four- round 12-under-par 276 in the Whitemarsh Open.

"It would be just like him to knock in an eagle and a birdie and tie the thing," Nicklaus said.

It was typical of the respect Palmer's colleagues feel for the biggest money winner of them all. Throughout the $125,000 Whitemarsh Open, the leaders always seemed to look back over their shoulder and in- quire, "Where's Palmer?"

Palmer didn't make it this time. Nicklaus' five-under-par 69 final round erased the six- stroke 54-hole lead held by Juan (Chi Chi) Rodriguez, and won him the $24,000 first prize.

Nicklaus edged Player by one stroke Sunday after both came from way back to take the big money. Player, who earned $16,000 for second place, made up five strokes on the field in the final round.

Player finished with a 69-70-69-89-277, one stroke ahead of Palmer who had a 68-70-67-73-278.

Nicklaus had rounds of 69-70-70-67.

Patterson Beats Eddie Machen in 12

Floyd Seeks Another Shot at Liston After Decisive Win

STOCKHOLM, Sweden (AP)— Floyd Patterson, the former world heavyweight champion, wants another crack at the title "very, very much" but most of all he wants to fight Sonny Liston again.

He took a giant step towards these goals by decisively out- pointing Eddie Machen in their 12-round bout here Sunday night before 40,000 at the Raasunda outdoor stadium.

Liston is the moody giant who lifted the heavyweight title from Patterson with a first round knockout in Chicago in 1962 and shattered Floyd's self-confidence with another first-round knock- out in their return title go at Las Vegas last summer. Cas- sius Clay then added to Patter- son's chagrin by winning the ti- tle from Liston at Miami Beach last February.

The ego of the 29-year-old former champ from New York appeared considerably bolstered by his cool and skillful per- formance against 32-year-old Machen of Redding, Calif., a fighter similarly haunted by past failures and psychological troubles.

Patterson showed surprisingly little of the ring rust he dis- played in his first comeback fight here last winter against champion Sante Amonti.

Except for the seventh round, which Machen won with a sting- ing right to the jaw, Patterson dominated the fight with his fa- miliar peekaboo guard and light-

Beginner Hits Hole-in-1 on Muni Links

What's so tough about this game of golf?

Mrs. W. H. Mann, Appleton, probably was asking herself the same question today after scoring a hole-in-one at the Reid Municipal course over the holiday weekend.

Mrs. Mann, just a beginner at the game, took a few less- ons recently. She finished her first round of nine holes with a score of 61. When she came to the No. 17 green on the second round she took out her driver for the 135-yard par 3 hole and promptly dropped her shot in the cup to the amazement of her husband and Frank Dommick who were with her on the round.

Mrs. Mann finished the second round with a score of 59.

Another hole-in-one was re- corded by Fran Williamson when he aced the 195-yard No. 2 hole with a 2-iron. With Williamson at the time of the ace was Bruce Robertson. James DeBauche and George Washeck.

The aces were the third and fourth of the season at the Reid layout.

second inning without the benefit of a hit. Meyer walked, went to second on an error enabling Russ Rusch to reach first, moved to third on a sacrifice by Dick Frank and scored on a ground out by Gib Schoen.

Menasha had a good chance to get back into the ball game in the sixth inning, but was able to score only two runs. After Rusch opened the inning with a walk and Frank followed with a double, Fondy pitcher Bob Kleinke threw two consecutive wild pitches allowing two runs to score. Pinch hitter Tom Konezke singled with one out and later moved to second on a two-out walk to Bill Gamme, but reliever Jim Kalk came in to end the threat by striking out Bill Becker.

Kalk struck out seven Macs in the three and one-third innings he pitched. Kleinke allowed seven hits, fanned two and walked three.

Becker hurled six fine innings in relief of Meyer for Menasha. He struck out eight and allowed four hits.

13 of All-Star Pitching Cast in Action In Weekend Tilts; Two Ready for NL

BY MIKE BATHET
NEW YORK (AP) — The National League leads the American League 2-0 in rested pitchers going into Tuesday's All-Star Game.
Of the 15 hand-picked pitchers for the All-Star classic, 13 line his pitchers up and call for saw action during the weekend, leaving the National League with a distinct advantage in its bid to even the over-all series ping backward.
Pascual, Drysdale
In the absence of such a major-league pitcher, the Los Angeles Dodgers manager of the tap Minnesota right-hander Calvin Johnson will spend the day National League team had mulo Pascual for the opening in the bullpen.
Don Drysdale of the Dodgers shot on the mound while Al Kaline of Detroit was ruled out when the Tigers notified the American League that he had suffered a severely bruised left ankle in Saturday's game. Rocky Colavito of Kansas City will replace him.

Eddie Breussoud replaced Baltimore's Luis Aparicio, who is nursing a pulled groin muscle.
The pitching situation has been the same story for many years, prompting Casey Stengel, manager of the New York Mets, who will be one of the National League's coaches, to suggest that baseball pass a rule prohibiting use of All-Star pitchers the Sunday before the game.

A Drysdale-Pascual duel would match two pitchers with 6-1 All-Star records. Drysdale 11-7 during the regular season, has been effective in All-Star action despite his record, allowing only six hits with a 2.45 earned run average in four games.

The American League line-up includes Harmon Killebrew, Bob Allison and Tony Oliva of the first six innings for LC-K and Twins and Mickey Mantle of the National League. Hank Peerenboom, a 3-run homer and Bob Williams of the Chicago Cubs made aboard in the eighth.

Leigh Warchel started for Kaukauna and was the loser. Ed Schaffer came on in the sixth and went the rest of the way.

The Papermakers scored a single run in the second when Hank Peerenboom slammed a solo homer leading off the frame. Three more runs crossed the plate in the third one on Hank's single and two on his brother Tom's single with men on second and third.

Lee Neumeier drove in one run in the fourth with a double and Gene Peerenboom singled home another. The Papermakers put the game out of reach with a 7-run outburst in the fifth.

Big blast was Hank Peerenboom's 3-run homer and Bob Arko sent two more home with a double.

Goldwater Line Of Delegates Remains Firm

Scranton Attempt At Blitz Appears To Be Sputtering

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—Sen. Barry Goldwater's delegate lines held firm today while Pennsylvania Gov. William W. Scranton's attempted blitz for the GOP presidential nomination showed no signs of catching fire.

With former Ambassador Clare Boothe Luce scheduled for the spotlight in the opening platform hearings tonight, Goldwater strategists remained so confident of his convention strength they made no move to break apart the Ohio and Wisconsin favorite son delegations from which they might gain additional votes.

As matters stood, Goldwater had 710 publicly committed votes in The Associated Press survey, a comfortable margin over the 655 necessary for the nomination. Scranton had 146, plus the 105 in the name of New York Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller and 45 committed to Henry Cabot Lodge, now the Pennsylvania governor's personal campaign adviser.

There remained 186 uncommitted delegates and 113 tied up to favorite sons, a relatively limited field in which Scranton could prospect. Of Goldwater's 700-plus, only a relatively small number were firmly bound by primary or convention action, but the others showed no signs of deserting him.

There were reports Sunday that Gov. James A. Rhodes had released Ohio's 58 votes from their first-ballot commitment to him as a favorite son. These reports were followed by others that Rep. John W. Byrnes would turn loose the 30-vote Wisconsin delegation. Either of these moves would have been interpreted as a sign of panic on the part of Goldwater's managers. Both were promptly denied.

Frank Sinatra Flying to Paris

STOCKHOLM (AP)—Frank Sinatra flew to Paris today, apparently recovered from the indisposition that kept him from attending the Floyd Patterson-Eddie Machen boxing bout.

The actor-singer's personal physician, Leo Crohn, Beverly Hills, Calif., said Sinatra had been suffering from a migraine headache.

As Sinatra and 11 followers left their hotel to take a chartered plane, Sinatra joked heartily with the others.

Sinatra is a close friend of Machen, who lost a 12-round decision to Patterson Sunday. Sinatra arrived Sunday for the fight, but Dr. Crohn ordered him to rest in his hotel. The doctor said he was exhausted from work on a film.

Election Among Quietest In History

BY JACK RUTLEDGE
MEXICO CITY (AP)—Government candidate Gustavo Diaz Ordaz, 53, was chosen Mexico's next president Sunday in one of the quietest elections in the nation's history.

His lone opponent was Jose Gonzalez Torres, 44, of the Party of National Action—PAN—which charged voting irregularities in a dozen states.

The federal electoral commission and high officials said it was a clean election and there were no disturbances.

Final Count
The final count will not be known for days. Only fragmentary returns were announced Sunday night. These were overwhelmingly for Diaz Ordaz, but not the 90 per cent lead he had been expected to get.

Diaz Ordaz pledged himself to give his full efforts to his new job, which he will take over Dec. 1 for six years.

He is believed to be a bit more to the right than President Adolfo Lopez Mateos. In campaign addresses he promised to continue the moderate policies of the present administration.

Diaz Ordaz was born in a village in the nearby state of Puebla March 12, 1911. His father was a schoolteacher and is a government accountant.

Was a Lawyer
Educated in Oaxaca, Guadalajara and Puebla, Diaz Ordaz became a lawyer and was named to a minor state post.

He was elected to Congress in 1946 and served in various positions in the powerful Interior Ministry until Lopez Mateos named him interior secretary in 1958. His outstanding work in the ministry was the breaking of several major strikes early in the Lopez Mateos regime.

He was nominated for the presidency by the government Party of Revolutionary Institutions—PRI—last November.

UAW, Chrysler Are Bargaining Over Contract

DETROIT (AP)—The United Auto Workers and Chrysler Corp. negotiators meet today to bargain on contract demands which the firm says would be very costly and the union says would repay a favor.

UAW President Walter P. Reuther, hitting on a key demand of the UAW in industry-wide bargaining this year, said the union will ask Chrysler for pension fund increases.

The union wants an increase to $4.25 per month for each year of service from the $2.80 under the current agreement, he said.

The contract of 74,000 UAW members with Chrysler expires August 31, the same time as pacts with General Motors Corp. and Ford Motor Co. The contracts cover a total of some 550,000 workers. The Big Three auto makers and the union held preliminary negotiating sessions last week.

GM and Ford talks will resume Tuesday. American Motors, whose contract expires Oct. 16, will open negotiations Wednesday.

"We helped you when you were in trouble" is Reuther's theme in Chrysler bargaining. He referred to 1961 when the

Expect Taylor To Give More Accurate News

Reliable Assessment Of Viet Nam War Essential at U. S.

BY FRED S. HOFFMAN

WASHINGTON (AP)—Gen. Maxwell D. Taylor's assumption of U.S. leadership in South Viet Nam may bring more accurate—and perhaps more balanced—information to Washington on the course of the war.

Reliable assessments from the field are imperative if the government is to be guided properly in its decisions on the conduct of U.S. efforts to help the South Vietnamese overcome Communist rebellion.

Certain key American officials here have been skeptical about the estimates and reports sent in from South Viet Nam.

This is not to suggest they have felt U.S. military and diplomatic authorities in Saigon have tried to delude the White House, State Department and the Defense Department.

Have Doubts
But some Washington officials have doubts about the way the information is gathered, the sources, and the judgments made on the basis of this information.

They acknowledge that accurate assessments are difficult in a war characterized by hundreds of small unit actions and a country whose peasant population is widely scattered through jungle, mountain and swampy delta.

It is known that Taylor, now on his way to take over as U.S. ambassador in South Viet Nam, intends to look very hard at the sources of information.

It is known, too, that Taylor believes the views of all observers should be reflected in the reports to Washington. This would give Washington the benefit of varying viewpoints from both soldiers and civilians on the scene.

Direct Reports
The four-star general, who retired as chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff to take over leadership of the entire U.S. effort in Viet Nam, expects to return to Washington about once every three months to report directly to President Johnson and other top policy makers.

But, it is known, he has no intention of looking over the shoulder of Gen. William C. Westmoreland, the U.S. military commander in South Viet Nam.

UAW signed a three-year agreement with Chrysler when it was in a period of declining sales and profits.

Chrysler's hourly rated employees Friday began receiving an additional five cents per hour, bringing their average wage to $3.05 hourly. The industry-wide average is $3.01.

Grindle's statement thus ended reports that Lodge, former ambassador to South Viet Nam, would be in Milwaukee today or Tuesday to meet with the states delegation to the Republican convention.

Lodge flew here Sunday night after a strategy meeting with Scranton in Harrisburg, Pa. He told newsmen he was more convinced than ever that Scranton would win the nomination over Arizona Sen. Barry Goldwater.

Touring Mississippi

Negroes Integrating Their State's Previously All-White Facilities

JACKSON, Miss. (AP)—Negro leaders were moving further into Mississippi today to inspect civil rights developments after quietly integrating several previously all-white facilities—including two hotels—in Jackson.

Officials of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People registered without incident Sunday at a downtown hotel and a motel, then received service in the coffee shop of one—all without incident.

Four unidentified Negro youths attended a previously all-white movie theater and more than a dozen Negroes in several cars were served at a drive-in cafe for whites. At the drive-in, all four tires on one car were slashed while its Negro passengers were inside.

Charles Evers, state field secretary for the NAACP, said the four-day civil rights inspection tour would continue today with the group's officials leaving Jackson for Canton, then a visit to Philadelphia in the afternoon and a mass meeting in Meridian tonight.

The trip to Philadelphia apparently will concern the case of three civil rights workers missing since June 21. The trio vanished after their release from jail, where they had been taken on a speeding charge.

Biracial groups of more than a dozen board members and staffers of the NAACP arrived in Jackson on three different flights Sunday to begin the statewide inspection tour.

The first racial barriers fell when two of the group checked into the Heidelberg Hotel. Detectives and newsmen witnessed the first registration of Negroes at a downtown hotel since Reconstruction days.

Joined by Others
After spending 20 minutes in their room, the two returned to the main floor where they were joined by three other Negroes. All entered the hotel's coffee shop, and were served.

Later, a five-member biracial member Negro group went to the Sun-N-San motel. The clerk said simply, "Sign in, please."

Newsmen and detectives watched. Other guests paid little attention.

The NAACP leaders said they would try to meet with Gov. Paul Johnson before leaving Jackson. Johnson said earlier he had no plans to meet with the group.

Poor Attendance Closes Fair's 'Wonder World'

NEW YORK (AP)—"Wonder World"—the $3.5-million show at the World's Fair—closed Sunday because of poor business.

The coproducers of "Ice-Travaganza" said that unless business picks up, the ice show will put on its last performance Saturday.

Business at the Texas Pavilion's "To Broadway With Love" was described as "terrible" over the weekend. Sunday's show was the last Sunday performance. From now on it will be on a six day-a-week basis.

Fair exhibitors had hoped for daily crowds of 300,000 or more over the holiday weekend. The figures never got to 200,000.

Malawi Flag Raised

50,000 Africans Cheer Birth of New Nation

BLANTYRE, Malawi (AP)—Malawi flag of black, green, red and white, with fireworks and mountain bonfires lighting up the sky, placed the British Union Jack.

Queen's Representative Prince Philip, husband of Queen Elizabeth II, and Governor Sir Glyn Jones, represented Britain at the celebration in the central stadium, which included tribal dancing and military parades. Jones now becomes governor-general of Malawi, the queen's representative in the 18th member nation of the British Commonwealth.

Official ceremonies centered on Blantyre, the main town in this mountainous south central African nation of 3.9 million Africans, 8,000 whites and 12,000 Asians.

After a moment of silence at midnight, 50,000 voices in the stadium roared "Ufumu" (independence).

Bonfires Blazed
Throughout the Indiana-sized nation, bonfires blazed on prominent peaks. A party of whites and Africans climbed 10,000-foot Mt. Malanje, the country's highest peak, to plant the new flag and light the nation's largest bonfire.

For Banda, a 58-year-old physician who attended Harvard Medical School, the ceremonies marked the end of a six-year struggle to win independence for his people. Although a determined nationalist, Banda is essentially pro-western and anxious to attract investors to develop his country's largely agricultural economy.

Britain has promised to cover Malawi's budget deficit, now $11.9 million, for the next five years. Britain and the United States are pouring in technical and financial aid.

Many Quarrels
Koetting said the McElvains moved into their house in March and there had been frequent arguments since with Dunse and his wife because the McElvains' 4-year-old daughter played in the driveway used by the two families.

The lieutenant said that the wives had argued Friday, and that McElvain said he made up his mind to seek an understanding with Dunse Saturday. After the two families had attended the morning Fourth of July parade, McElvain approached Dunse, but he told Koetting their talk ended when Dunse threatened to knock him down.

Koetting said that McElvain related that he went to his home, loaded a .45 caliber pistol which he put in a pocket, returned to his yard and stood watching his neighbors for 15 minutes. The lieutenant said McElvain went back in the house, but returned with the shotgun.

Byrnes Delays His Decision On Delegates

Action on Release Will Wait Until Convention Starts

GREEN BAY — Rep. John Byrnes said Sunday that "absolutely no decision" has been made at this time on releasing the Republican national convention delegation pledged to him as favorite son from the April primary.

Byrnes made the statement after an article Sunday quoted him as saying his understanding of the primary law is that he, as the favorite son candidate, could release the delegation before the first roll call. He said this could happen on Wednesday, July 15, the day of presidential nominations and the first roll call.

May Await Actual Voting

Byrnes said Sunday he was concerned that the quotation indicated a decision already was made.

"Absolutely no decision with respect to releasing the Wisconsin delegation to the Republican national convention has been made, and no decision will be made until the convention convenes in San Francisco. A firm decision will probably not be made until the day of the nominations and the first ballot which is expected to be Wednesday, July 15," Byrnes said.

There is some dispute among lawyers about the intent of the primary law in the area of delegates being released. The delegation of the law in question says that delegates elected in the primary pledge they "will, until released by said candidate, vote for his candidacy on the first ballot of the said party convention and vote for his candidacy on all ensuing ballots" unless the total vote for the candidate falls below 10 percent of the convention total.

Gov. John Reynolds, who ran as a favorite son in the April primary, pledged to President Johnson, already has released his delegation. Byrnes said his view of the law was that this could be done.

Some Wisconsin supporters of Sen. Barry Goldwater are concerned that the state might be in a position of missing being a part of a Goldwater nomination if first ballot votes must be cast for the favorite son winner of the primary. Most estimates are that at least half of the 30 Wisconsin delegates would vote for Goldwater if released.

Ike's Brother To Nominate Gov. Scranton

Candidate Asserts Ex-President Lauds Milton's Decision

CHICAGO (AP) — Gov. William Scranton of Pennsylvania announced today that Dr. Milton Eisenhower, brother of the former president, will nominate Scranton at the Republican National Convention next week.

Scranton opened a news conference with this statement: "I am delighted and pleased to announce that Dr. Milton Eisenhower will nominate me for president at the Republican National Convention in San Francisco. Gen. Eisenhower knows about this and is very pleased about it. The general said that was the best news he heard yet."

Scranton spoke with reporters early in a fast two-day appeal for Illinois support built around the civil rights issue.

Campaigns in Illinois

Scranton opened a last-ditch campaign in the home state of Abraham Lincoln. He sought to head off a first-ballot nomination of his rival, Sen. Barry Goldwater of Arizona at the GOP convention.

4 Wounded in Race Rioting

32 Negroes Jailed In Texas During Violence at Lake

TEXARKANA, Tex. (AP) — A lakeside racial melee Sunday left four persons wounded by gunfire, and 32 Negroes jailed on charges ranging from inciting a riot to assault with intent to murder.

The violence erupted when Negroes swam in Lake Texarkana near here for the first time in large numbers since the passage of the civil rights bill. They were confronted with disgruntled and then angry whites. At another area of the lake, whites left the beach when a group of Negroes began swimming.

Negroes Jailed

The Cass County sheriff's office at Linden, where the Negroes were transferred, said Clifford Williams, 21-year-old Negro, was charged with assault with intent to murder.

Most of the others including five women, were charged with inciting a riot, a sheriff's deputy said.

The Negroes, most from Arkansas, were jailed in lieu of $1,000 bond each set by Judge Wayne Brown.

One white man and three Negroes were wounded in the racial outbreak.

Bottles, Rocks Weapons

Lake Texarkana is five miles west of this northeastern Texas city on the Arkansas border. Some Negroes had swum in the lake previously without major incident.

Johnson Drafting New Program for Congress

Record Thus Far Pleases President

JOHNSON CITY, Tex. (AP) — President Johnson is "highly pleased and gratified" at Congress' record, but he is cooking up new proposals he feels will move the country toward his concept of a "Great Society."

Johnson believes enactment of the sweeping civil rights law has cleared the way for tackling such problems as metropolitan area growth, the growth of interlocking federal, state and local responsibilities and finances, health, education, and gearing the governmental structure to an age of science and technology.

Plans Being Drafted

White House sources relayed Johnson's views to newsmen covering his holiday stay here and said the chief executive already has a number of task forces at work on long-term planning.

Until the various studies are finished, the President is not about to put a price tag on the proposals that ultimately may be submitted to Congress for new legislation.

Johnson has been trying to project the image of an economy-minded administration. But he is represented as feeling that while the people want sound and prudent fiscal management, they also want the government to respond with compassion to human needs.

Possible "Rights" Changes

The President has not ruled out the possibility of further civil rights legislation, but no determination can be made, he feels, until the effects of the bill he signed last Thursday are assessed.

In the foreign field, Johnson is claiming to be well satisfied about the transition of new American leadership in South Vietnam, his conferences with Greek and Turkish leaders on the critical Cyprus problem and his first meeting with a Latin American chief of state, President Francisco Orlich of Costa Rica.

When he gets back to the White House — it is not known when the President will end his Texas holiday — Johnson intends to talk with both outside experts and heads of various government departments and agencies about long-term planning in the various domestic fields which he feels need attention.

Plane Crashes Into Mountain, 5 Crewmen Die

KETCHIKAN, Alaska (AP) — All five crewmen aboard a twin-engine Coast Guard search plane were killed when it crashed into a mountain, only a minute or two from their base at near-by Annette Island.

The burned and battered wreckage was spotted from the air late Sunday. It was mashed into the woods 2,000 feet above the Pacific Ocean and only 200 feet from the top of Dall Head on Gravina Island.

The Coast Guard reported there was no chance that any of the fliers survived. None was listed as from Wisconsin.

The last word from the amphibious Albatross plane — returning in the dark and murky grizzle Friday night, after a search for a grounded fishing boat — was a request to turn on landing strip lights at Annette Air Station.

More of the Same, Says Weather Vane

Fox Cities — Considerable cloudiness with showers and thundershowers today and tonight. Tuesday fair and little chance. Low overnight, 63. High Tuesday, 79. Light southerly winds shifting to the northwest.

6 Drownings In Wisconsin Over Holidays

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Water accidents in Wisconsin took six lives during the Fourth of July holiday period, including a little girl who drowned in her yard.

Tammy Schultz, 20 months, drowned in a backyard swimming pool Sunday while her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Raymond E. Schultz of Milwaukee, were out buying a smaller pool for use by the younger children in the family. Tammy, who had been left in the care of older children, was found face down in a pool purchased Saturday.

Drowns After Collision

Cyril Gruber, 35-year-old cheesemaker of Plain, drowned Sunday night in Lake Wisconsin near Prairie du Sac when the boat he was operating figured in a collision with another. Columbia County authorities directed a search for the body.

Leroy Kage, 38, of the town of Rib Falls in Marathon County, drowned in Nottis Lake near Medford while fishing with friends Saturday night.

Grenade Fails to Explode at Saigon Embassy of U. S.

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP) — A Viet Cong terrorist threw a grenade at the U. S. Embassy in Saigon today but it failed to explode.

The grenade was hidden in a loaf of bread that the terrorist tore open before throwing the grenade. In his excitement he pulled the detonating mechanism from the grenade instead of just the pin and it did not go off, an embassy spokesman said.

Vietnamese police cordoned off the boulevard leading past the embassy.

Vietnamese embassy drivers who were witnesses said the bomb was thrown by a Vietnamese dressed in white trousers and a shirt. He got away.

Americans inside the embassy were ordered to stay in until a thorough search was made of the area. Then they were allowed to go home for lunch.

The incident took place less than 24 hours before the arrival of the new U.S. ambassador to Viet Nam, Gen. Maxwell D. Taylor.

Byrnes Seeks Re-Election To Congress

GOP Representative Lists Candidacy, Files Papers Today

Special to The Post-Crescent
 WASHINGTON — Rep. John W. Byrnes, Green Bay Republican, announced today he is a candidate for re-election in Wisconsin's Eighth Congressional district.

Byrnes, one of the top GOP leaders in the House of Representatives, is seeking his 11th term in office. Nomination papers on his behalf were submitted today at the secretary of state's office in Madison.

Byrnes said today he is planning an extensive personal campaign, backed by a strong organization effort.

He is now preparing to leave here for San Francisco where he will lead the Wisconsin delegation at the Republican national convention next week. Byrnes became the "favorite son" choice of Wisconsin Republicans in the April presidential primary and later was chosen chairman of the delegation at its organizational meeting.

Byrnes was first elected to Congress in 1941, and has risen to national prominence during his 20-year term.

He is the senior GOP member of the Ways and Means Committee, the party's spokesman on tax and fiscal matters. He is chairman of the House Republican Policy Committee and is a member of the Joint Republican House-Senate leadership group.

Before his election to Congress, Byrnes served four years in the State Senate where he was Judiciary Committee chairman and majority floorleader.

Byrnes, a lifelong Green Bay resident, attended that city's parochial and public schools and received his bachelor of arts and law degrees from the University of Wisconsin.

He is married and has three sons and three daughters.

New London School Costs $1.4 Million

NEW LONDON — The new high school plant proposed for New London will cost an estimated $1.4 million, not $2.5 million as indicated in a story in the Sunday Post-Crescent. H. J. Ramsdell, superintendent, said Monday.

One of the earlier school plans called for costs estimated at $2.5 million but this was rejected by the electors in a referendum.

In an April referendum the district's voters finally approved a school plan and the sale of bonds in the amount of $1.4 million. The bonds, expected to be sold at a meeting at 1 p.m. Wednesday, not 10 a.m. as reported in the story, are expected to cover all construction costs, Ramsdell said, not "help finance" the project.

The Werner - Allen site, school owned property, was chosen for the proposed school, not the Abraham Heights site, as was reported.

Huber Law Dorm Plan Okay Sought

Outagamie to Submit Proposal To State Commission This Week

Proposed plans to relocate prison came after the board's Outagamie County Huber law public property and insurance prisoners will be submitted to committee conferred with Appleton Industrial Completion architect George Naromission this week a county vec board committee decided Thurs- A rough sketch of the proposed plans had been approved

The plans would relocate the by Vern Verhulst, state jail indormitory of the prisoners from specter, in April The plans, its present location in the fourth however, must be approved by floor jail to the first floor (base the industrial commission, be ment) of the county courthouse here the county can proceed

The move to submit plans with them for industrial commission an Narom and three committeemen were named to take the plans to Madison this week possibly Wednesday or Friday

Committeemen designated were Supvs. Arthur Hoolihan (Appleton 11th), Rudolph Soreman (Town of Greenville) and Walter Fredericks (New London 3rd)

Proposed plans call for removing the Huber law prisoners out of the jail and into the first floor offices now occupied by the County Welfare Department.

The welfare unit would be relocated in the courthouse annex in space recently vacated by the Wisconsin Department of Taxation

If the industrial commission approves the plans, the committee indicated it would present them to the county board at its July 14 session

2 U. S. Soldiers Killed in Battle With Viet Cong

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP) — Two American Special Forces men and an Australian army adviser were killed today in what other Americans described as a magnificent defense of a central highlands Special Forces camp under heavy Communist Viet Cong attack.

In a five-hour battle characterized by hand-to-hand fighting by troops and courage by a time and the defendant, like group of Vietnamese women wise, was free to refuse Matz's milk at any time," Judge Dohr said.

No Contract
 "No contract between the plaintiff and Matz," Judge Dohr said in the opinion that there is no contract between the co-op and Matz and that Matz is only entitled to payment for his milk on a day-to-day basis. The agreement was never signed by Matz.

Off-Again, On-Again
 "It was an off-again, on-again" decision, and, finally, Matz decided that his milk was to be picked up until Nov. 15 so that he could make arrangements to ship his milk elsewhere," the record indicated.

Matz said he was unable to find a new market after contacting the Borden plant and Consolidate Badger at Shawano. Matz dumped his milk for several days between Nov. 15 and 20 before contacting an Appleton law firm and obtaining the non-professional injunction.

The co-op agreed to haul his milk to that time and after Nov. 15, 1961. Matz shipped no more milk to Outagamie Producers Cooperative for a period of six days.

"When the co-operative refused to accept his milk after that time," the jurist cited, "the and both injunctions, plus order- ing Matz to pay the co-operative costs in defending the injunction requiring the co-operation

Schadeberg Asks Duties to Counter Canadian Tariffs

WASHINGTON (AP) — Rep. Henry Schadeberg, R-Wis., has urged the Treasury Department to take steps to offset a tariff-incentive program put into effect last year by the Canadian government.

The congressman said in a telegram to Secretary of the Treasury Douglas Dillon that as a result of the program, the Modine Manufacturing Co. of Racine, Wis., has lost several million dollars worth of business to Canadian firms.

Schadeberg asked the imposition of countervailing duties upon Canadian manufactured motor vehicle parts imported into the United States under a Canadian subsidy program.

Schadeberg said that under the program, called the duty remission plan, the Canadian government in effect pays an export subsidy to Canadian motor vehicle parts manufacturers on their exports to the American market.

He said the subsidy often amounts to 25 per cent of the invoiced price of the exported products. It is financed, he said, through high import duties on American goods sold in Canada.

The Civil Rights Law

The signing of the Civil Rights Bill into law will hardly be noticed in states like Wisconsin until a later time when specific cases arise. But the event is being heralded in southern states by a widespread effort to test the law by Negro civil rights leaders. Whether or not even more racial violence explodes will depend upon the vigilance and judgment of southern police officials.

In some areas of the south Negro organizational leaders are planning to test the law—or the changes in policy—at places which have consistently refused to desegregate. Southern Woolworth lunch counters, Louisiana movie theaters, specific restaurants in Atlanta and South Carolina, swimming pools in Florida and motels in Alabama will be tested. Certainly court cases will develop and the constitutionality of the public accommodations section of the new law will probably be the first to be determined. This was one section considered by Senator Barry Goldwater as unconstitutional and cited as a reason for his voting against the civil rights legislation.

Many southern businesses, including the Woolworth stores, have announced that they will desegregate and it should be remembered that, whatever the sentiments of some store owners, many communities in the south have had various ordinances against integration at different levels. Chains of restaurants and motels throughout the south in particular have said they would desegregate. But some others of course have announced exactly the opposite, particularly in Mississippi.

The Mississippi Innkeepers Association has flatly stated that all Mississippi motels and hotels will continue to be segregated whatever the federal law says. A leader in the Citizens Councils explains that "most businesses feel that the law will be declared unconstitutional and are going to treat it like they did the Supreme Court decision on school desegregation. It will be like the speakeasies of Prohibition days when people went right on drinking as though there was no Prohibition."

Since Mississippi is officially dry but still manages to consume large quantities of hard liquor, presumably Mississippians know the hows and wherefores. But the constitutionality of the new law is hardly the issue in Mississippi. Forced school segregation has been declared unconstitutional for more than ten years but there has been no effort to comply in Mississippi except at the college level and then only after federal troops were called.

The problem is not alone that of obeying the new law, however. Some southerners are betwixt and between. "It's a question of who is going to get us first, the Klan or the Black Muslims," said one worried Florida motel keeper who had signed a resolution that he would comply with civil rights legislation. Threats of bombing and other violence have been coming to him ever since from hard core segregationists who are using the current outbreak of racial fighting in St. Augustine as evidence of the trouble ahead.

There will be a lot of trouble ahead and northerners should not shrug it off too easily or blame it all on the hard core white residents. If Negro leaders were wise, they would go slow on implementation and recognize that the law is now on their side.

Civil Rights in Wisconsin

The news dispatches covering the Democratic state convention in Milwaukee gave considerable emphasis to platform committee discussions on civil rights proposals and subsequent floor debate at the convention, which was natural enough in the climate of dispute about this broad question which prevails in the country.

But none of the accounts noted that in addition to the detailed proposals to back up literally the ideal of the equal rights laws in our own state, this party organization also committed itself to upset completely the existing law enforcement machinery in the field.

Central to the party's civil rights position, as now approved by the delegate convention, is a promise to establish a Wisconsin Equal Opportunity Commission "with adequate appropriations and strong enforcement powers."

We are informed by party men who participated in this drafting work that the intention of the authors, although it is not explicitly stated, is to abolish such existing agencies as the Governor's Commission on Human Rights and the Fair Employment Practices Division of the State Industrial Commission.

This idea, we believe, is an unfortunate example of the heedless impatience of some of the civil rights organizations whose demands the party apparently does not dare deny.

Such a plan will considerably increase the resistance to such substantive amendments of the civil rights laws which the legislature of 1965 may want to consider, without any assurance of better enforcement mechanics even if it is enacted.

The Governor's Commission has a distinguished and admired record of education, conciliation and mediation in civil rights and notably in the field of public accommodations discrimination.

The Fair Employment Practices Division of the Industrial Commission during the last few years has perceptibly increased its watch-dog program for the faithful application of the laws which have been adopted by the state legislature. If there has been any change that it is not handling the complaints that come to it, it has escaped our notice. Indeed, there are some employers, we would suppose on the basis of recent developments, who may feel that the division has been altogether too diligent in pursuing technical compliance with the letter of the law.

Much the same reservation will be expressed about the platform plank asking for the establishment of a civil rights division in the office of the state attorney general who is the prosecutor on behalf of all enforcement agencies. This is confounding the name with the game. The lawyers in this office are now at the beck and call of agencies, and we seriously doubt that they will perform any differently, or any more energetically, if they are compartmentalized according to categories of cases.

Another Milestone for Appleton

Another milestone was attained in municipal government when the Appleton Common Council unanimously passed an ordinance creating a five-man Parking Commission to direct the city's on and off-street parking program which is "big business" to say the least.

Thus, Appleton joins several other cities in the state, and across the nation, having parking commissions or utilities. They play an important role in this day and age when more and more emphasis is being placed on adequate parking facilities for the general public.

Looking Backward

Vallandigham in News Again

100 YEARS AGO
Quoted from the Appleton Crescent for July 9, 1864.

C. L. Vallandigham was, contrary to all law, banished "beyond our military lines."

He was compelled then, by the rebels to leave that portion of the United States over which they had usurped military authority, because he declared himself hostile to their secession enterprise and in favor of the Constitutional government of the United States.

He has in violation of his sentence, wended his way back to Ohio. His sentence has not been remitted, neither has he asked nor obtained permission to visit his friends. (President Lincoln directed in 1863 that Vallandigham be sent under armed guard to the headquarters of Gen. Rosecrans to be put by him in Confederate territory and that in case of his return he should be arrested and kept in custody for the term specified in his sentence.)

The President, after ample time had passed to allow his malignant passions to cool, reiterated that his deliberate judgment that Vallandigham was guilty and that he was legally and justly punished. He refused to remit his sentence, he refused to allow him to be tried by the laws of the land and by a jury of his peers. In fact, he proclaimed that Vallandigham was too dangerous a man to be permitted to remain in the United States. Vallandigham roams at will in the great state of Ohio, in defiance of the edict of the Executive. He, a convicted criminal and traitor to his country, in the estimation of the worshippers at the shrine of lawless power, hurle the gaze of insult in the very face of the Executive and dares him to enforce his sentence.

Why does Lincoln hesitate to enforce the sentence? That sentence to which he affixed his own right hand?

Why the trembling tergiversation of the shoddy press at the mere thought or mention of the convict's re-arrest? Has power suddenly grown purblind and impotent?

Or has the judge and the felon struck hands in a nefarious compact, as did Greely and Dickinson, Raymond and Ren. Butler, Lincoln and Breckenridge, but four years ago?

Inside Washington

Powers Asked for 'Poverty Czar'; Will be Attacked by Republicans

BY ROBERT S. ALLEN AND PAUL SCOTT

Congress is headed for a major battle over the sweeping powers President Johnson is seeking for his "poverty czar."

Scheduled to begin in the House and Senate after the Republican national convention, the "big debate" on the poverty program could have as far-reaching an impact on the coming presidential campaign as the fallout from the new civil rights law.

Aides of Senator Barry Goldwater, who voted against the civil rights bill, say he is ready to oppose the poverty program unless the legislation is drastically changed to curb the powers of the federal government and give state and local governments bigger roles.

Senator Goldwater, leading GOP presidential candidate, will have the full backing of Senate and House Republican leaders on this highly crucial and political vote. They are privately saying a President Johnson's program could stir up a "nightmare of trouble" throughout the country rather than stamp out poverty.

The dark heart of this growing GOP opposition centers around the unprecedented authority proposed for the director of the "Office of Economic Opportunity," due to be set up in the White House under the present legislation.

Under the Johnson administration proposal now before the House Rules Committee and the Senate Labor Committee, this office would be run by a "poverty czar" empowered to select the local agencies or private groups to receive funds under the billion dollar poverty program.

This "poverty czar" would also have the tremendous power of setting the criteria on how the money was to be spent, and would be given a free hand to draft rules and regulations governing the operation of a 40,000-member Youth Corps.

LIFTING THE LID—A preview of the coming public GOP attack against the President's program was outlined by Representative Peter Frelinghuysen, R-N.J., in his little-noticed testimony before the Senate Labor Committee.

A respected leader of the "moderate" Republicans on the House Labor Committee, Frelinghuysen carried his opposition to the Senate after the Democratic majority in the House committee beat down all GOP attempts to curb the powers of the "poverty czar."

While vigorously supporting federal aid to fight poverty, Frelinghuysen attacked what he termed "the unparalleled powers vested in the director of the Office of Economic Opportunity—the poverty czar."

He bluntly warned that the creation of this powerful new federal position "opens the way for direct federal involvement in the activities of every private organization in every community in the country without the necessity of participation or approval of either state or local government."

Pointing out that "As the bill is now written, there is no role for the local or state governments," Frelinghuysen charged.

"If this bill is enacted, the 'poverty czar' would be empowered to pick and choose between private and public agencies in the granting of billions of dollars in federal funds."

"This bill vests in a federal czar both the power of approval of all poverty programs and the more basic power to determine all the criteria for approval. The only authority accorded state governments is the right of a governor to comment on projects carried out in his state. This is so meaningless as to be insulting. Local public officials, however, are not even given this empty courtesy. The relationship is clearly that of master and servant."

THE BACKLASH—When

Senator Patrick McNamara, D-Mich., challenged the New Jersey legislator, contending that the bill did not bar the "poverty czar" from using state agencies, Frelinghuysen lashed back:

"This is what I resent. This gives him unwarranted powers. If we think that we should utilize state agencies in one way or another to make a distribution of funds to alleviate seems to me we have an obligation to spell that out."

"What if a state would not cooperate?" asked McNamara.

"I think it unwise to give the federal government the power to give the NAACP or any local citizens' group which might not even be representative of the community, wherever it is, to use federal money to do something that community or state does not want," replied Frelinghuysen.

Stressing that "This is a very sensitive area of federal-state relations," Frelinghuysen concluded:

"This bill charts a new and unjustified course for governmental responsibility in general and for the federal role in particular. It proposes a federal bureaucracy whose influence would permeate every nook and cranny of civic responsibility—public and private.

"I cannot conceive of such intervention being in the best interest of liberal democratic institutions. As a political slogan, 'War on Poverty' appeals to the generous instincts of most citizens. As legislators, however, we have an obligation to look at the propriety of methods proposed to fight poverty.

"We have an obligation to assure that the first casualties of such poverty war will not be those principles of American democracy which have made possible the most determined and most successful war on poverty in the history of the world."

Note: One of the main drafters of the President's poverty program was Adam Yarmolinsky, one of the most controversial officials in the administration. A special assistant to Defense Secretary Robert McNamara, Yarmolinsky is "on loan" to Sargent Shriver, acting director of the poverty program.

Building Commission Illustrates Progress In State Government

BY JOHN WYNGAARD

MADISON—There is a tendency to criticize the standard nature of the state government with respect to its administrative organization, and there are dozens of examples to justify critical commentary. But in one conspicuous instance the state in recent years has reformed its administration arrangements with happy and fruitful results.

The importance of the state building commission can perhaps be best understood when it is recalled that it was only a few years ago that the question of authorizing budgets for the construction of new institutional buildings and their design, capacity, location and priority was left to the uncertain lottery in the state legislature proper.

The institution which had the most persuasive spokesman, or the most effective lobby, or had made friends with an influential committee chairman, or commanded the most effective publicity, managed to get what it wanted.

The less aggressive administrator was generally forgotten altogether.

If it happened that a fair balance of expenditure against need was achieved for the state colleges and the university, for example, or for the state prisons as against the state mental hospitals, it was largely a matter of lucky accident. There was no planning machinery. There was not even a pretense of comprehensive examination of institution needs on the whole or an appraisal of the social requirements of education and public welfare services to name the two most costly of the institutional plant pressures upon the state treasury.

Anyone who has ever wondered about the implausible locations of some of the chief state institutions must have had some notions about the port barreling methods of such expenditure allocations in past eras. At a meeting of the state college regents not long ago a staff historian remarked that the state colleges owe their present locations to a political agreement of long ago that they should be distributed according to congressional districts, as an illuminating illustration.

AND NOW

Today the legislature decides how much the state can afford for institution reconstruction and expansion, endorses in a general way the priority schedule prepared by the commission, and then delegates to the commission the responsibility for deciding how and where projects will be built.

Some of the legislature's best men are serving as building commissioners. Occasionally there are flares of dispute between them and Gov. Reynolds, but in general they have managed their tasks with a kind of gentleman's agreement to ignore their partisan rivalries.

These men are authorizing projects currently aggregating $100,000,000 a year. The figure is more likely to increase during the years ahead than to decline. Most of the money is borrowed through dummy corporations, which is not the ideal method of financing in the view of most critics. One result is that the expenditures are not noted as carefully by the general public as would be formal, legally qualified state bond issues.

But these men are not responsible for the dubious methods—most of which they inherited. The record is clear that the budgeting process for one of the big and growing categories of state spending is being handled more conscientiously and carefully by the building commission than would ever be likely if these appropriations were carved out of the treasury in the political jockeying process that is the legislative operation.

The building commission is one of the important if little noted improvements in state government of the last decade.

Strictly Personal

Personality of Man Not Apple But Banana

BY SYDNEY J. HARRIS

The personality of man is not an apple that has to be polished, but a banana that has to be peeled. And the reason we remain so far from one another, the reason we neither communicate nor interact in any real way, is that most of us spend our lives in polishing rather than peeling.

Man's lifelong task is simply one, but it is not simple: to remove the discrepancy between his outer self and his inner self, to get rid of the "persona" that divides his authentic self from the world.

This persona is like the peeling on a banana. It is something built up to protect from bruises and injury. It is not the real person, but sometimes of the fear of injury remains too great it becomes a lifelong substitute for the person.

The "authentic personality" I spoke about in my column on teachers last year knows that he is like a banana, and knows that only as he peels himself down to his individualized self can he reach out and make contact with his students by what Father Goldbrunner calls "the sheer maturity of his humanity." Only when he himself is detached from his defensive armorings can he then awaken a true response in his students.

Most of us, however, think in terms of the apple, not the banana. We spend our lives in shining the surface, in making it rosy and gleaming, in perfecting the "image." But the image is not the apple, which may be wormy and rotten to the taste.

Almost everything in modern life is devoted to the polishing process, and little to the peeling process. It is the surface personality that we work on—the appearance, the clothes, the manners, the gentility. In short, the salesmanship: we are selling the package, not the product.

There is a vast disparity between our outer and inner selves, in many of us, the real person never comes to life at all, never reveals itself, never knows itself. It lives through its functions, it lives as a type, a response to an environment, and dies without ever having found its true existence. This, and not unhappiness, is the tragedy of life, this, and not "selfishness," is what causes human misery.

So long as we live behind the peeling, we can have no genuine encounter with the world. So long as we go on polishing, we sacrifice the substance for the image—until, at last, there is no substance left. What is all the good of our "individualism," if it means merely the freedom to be like everybody else, the liberty to remain secure within the peeling?

Potomac Fever— by Jack Wilson said from 80 to 100 Negroes and 150 to 200 whites were involved. They brandished bottles and hurled rocks that smashed car windows and headlights, Dowd said.

The site was littered with broken glass and other debris.

Witnesses report this is what happened:

The Negroes, who had been swimming in the lake for some time, began singing and clapping hands as they waded ashore.

Wounded in Leg

Guns appeared. Lee Edward Johnson, a 21-year-old white, was shot in the leg with a pistol.

"Then a white man reached into his car, pulled out a shotgun and fired two shots," one witness said. "A colored man tried to take it away from him, and it went off again."

Shotgun pellets struck three Negroes: James Hutson, 17; Eugene Sumler, 15; and William Easter, 28.

Police said the Negroes then sped to a Texarkana hospital in several cars, lights on and horns blowing. Officers who had learned of the disturbance by short wave radio said the Negroes ran several traffic signals.

They were arrested at the hospital. Easter and Hutson were released after treatment and jailed with the other Negroes. Johnson and Sumler were hospitalized overnight. None was believed seriously hurt.

No whites were arrested.

Tshombe Expects to Form Government As Congo's Premier

LEOPOLDVILLE, the Congo (AP)—Moise Tshombe, former secessionist president of Katanga Province, announced today he would try to form a new Congolese government with himself as premier.

Tshombe said President Joseph Kasavubu had named him premier-designate. He said he was optimistic he could put together a Cabinet of "national reconciliation" to pacify the Congo's many warring factions.

Tshombe said he had received assurances from the Rebel Committee of National Liberation based in Brazzaville, just across the river from Leopoldville.

He added that as a token of their good faith, the rebels had ordered a halt in antigovernment hostilities in Kwilu, Kivu and North Katanga provinces.

GOP Favored to Retain Its State Legislative Majority

Republicans Given Edge to Capture Four New Districts

BY FRANK CREPEAU

MADISON (AP) — Republicans must be favored to retain control of the Wisconsin Legislature in November because a Senate majority is all but assured and court ordered reapportionment apparently gave the GOP a slight edge in the Assembly.

Survey of Associated Press member editors and political writers indicates that while most of the 100 Assembly districts were affected by the Supreme Court's reapportionment plan, in only a few instances did the realignment change the political complexion.

The May 14 decision did serve to keep Wisconsin in the vanguard of states which fairly apportion legislative districts on a population basis.

Historic Decision

When the U.S. Supreme Court a month later set population apportionment as the only constitutional standard, Wisconsin was one of only three states in which the historic decision required no change. The others are Oregon and Kentucky.

In Wisconsin, the GOP now holds a 54-46 majority in the Assembly. The realignment will do away with two seats now held by Democrats and a pair held by Republicans.

But Republicans stand to win four new districts created in the four new Wisconsin counties. In giving Waukesha County a pair of additional seats, the court accepted a plan drafted by Republicans and the two districts seem safely in the GOP column.

Green Bay Meeting

Reynolds to Air Views On College for Valley

Gov. John Reynolds will meet with the Northeastern Wisconsin Education Committee in Green Bay Tuesday to discuss plans and give his views on a 4-year institution of higher learning in the Fox Valley.

Reynolds is to meet with the committee and public at an 8:30 a.m. breakfast in the Hotel

Reynolds' meeting is part of a 2-day tour of state institutions to collect budget and building information.

One of the persons attending the Green Bay meeting will be State Sen. Gerald Lorge, Bear Creek, who represents Waupaca and Outagamie counties in the State Legislature.

'Not Proper Place'

Lorge told the Post-Crescent today that "Green Bay is not the proper place for a proposed new 4-year branch of the Uni-

Republicans Given Edge to Capture Four New Districts

The GOP also is favored to take the additional seats granted in Outagamie and Milwaukee counties.

Hold Sway

If that happens, the Republicans will continue to hold sway in the 1965 Assembly, but by the increased margin of 56-44.

Prediction is risky, however, in Assembly races which often turn on local issues, and where vote margins are tallied in the hundreds rather than the thousands.

With all 100 seats up for grabs on Nov. 3, a switch of 10 seats would not be uncommon. Democrats hope for a landslide victory for President Johnson that would help them repeat a 1958 triumph in which they swept 22 Assembly seats away from Republicans.

If Democrats did gain control of the Assembly it would be only the second time since 1933.

In 1962, Republicans elected 75 assemblymen. That total dropped to 64 in 1954 and went up to 67 two years later. The Democratic victory of 1958 left the GOP with 45 assemblymen, but they recaptured the House in 1960 with 55 seats and in 1962 took 54 seats.

New Districts

To create four new Assembly districts, the State Supreme Court took one seat from Douglas County to leave Democrats Reino Perala of Superior and Charles Bouchard of Brule competing for re-election.

The second seat came from a change in a northwestern tier of counties that created four districts where five had existed. The new districts are Burnett and Polk; Washburn and Bar-

Iron; Sawyer, Price and Rusk; and Taylor and Lincoln.

The change puts Joseph Sweda, D-Lublin, in the same district with Fred Reger, R-Merrill, and Reger is favored to win.

The third seat is gained by breaking up the Forest, Florence and Langlade counties district and adding those counties to surrounding districts. The change puts Paul Dailey, R-Elcho, in the same district as Lloyd Baumgart, R-Oconto.

The fourth seat comes from Realignment of a block of counties in southwestern Wisconsin to create three districts out of the existing four.

The new districts are Vernon and Crawford; Richland and Iowa; and Lafayette and Green. The change puts G. Fred Galli, R-Monroe, in the same district as Walter Calvert, R-Benton.

The realignment means at least four incumbents won't be back in the Legislature when it reconvenes in 1965. And there probably will be 15 or 20 other new faces in the 1965 Assembly.

There were 28 new assemblymen in the 1959 Legislature, 35 in 1961 and 21 in the 1963 assembly.

turned over to old-fashioned political campaigning — hand-shaking and shopping-center rallies.

He has said his aim is to arouse the public of Illinois to such an extent they will, in turn, pressure the state's 58-vote convention delegation to turn away from Goldwater.

Last week the delegates indicated in a poll they would give 48 first-ballot votes to Goldwater. Eight delegates were uncommitted and two passed making a choice.

Civil Rights Issue

Civil rights was the keystone of the 46-year-old governor's campaign in Illinois because Goldwater voted against the civil rights bill signed into law by President Johnson last Thursday.

Scranton issued a civil rights "position paper" today, which again attacked Goldwater's position on the issue as "utterly incredible." He said the GOP is "committed to taking further steps at all levels of government" to end discrimination beyond the scope of the new civil rights law.

He also recommended that Scranton come to Chicago Sunday night after a weekend of all existing educational facilities on a higher level, including private schools, before the final push for the nomination.

Science Shrinks Piles New Way Without Surgery Stops Itch—Relieves Pain

New York, N. Y. (Special) — For the first time science has found a new healing substance with the astonishing ability to shrink hemorrhoids, stop itching, and relieve pain — without surgery.

In one hemorrhoid case after another, "very striking improvement" was reported and verified by a doctor's observation.

Pain was relieved promptly. And, while gently relieving pain, actual reduction or retraction (shrinking) took place.

And most amazing of all — this improvement was maintained in cases where a doctor's observations were continued over a period of many months! In fact, results were so thorough that sufferers were able to make such astonishing statements as "Piles have ceased to be a problem!" And among these sufferers were a very wide variety of hemorrhoid conditions, some of 10 to 20 years' standing.

All this, without the use of narcotics, anesthetics or astringents of any kind. The secret is a new healing substance (Bio-Dyne®) — the discovery of a world-famous research institution. Already, Bio-Dyne is in wide use for healing injured tissue on all parts of the body.

This new healing substance is offered in suppository or ointment form called Preparation H®. Ask for individually sealed convenient Preparation H Suppositories or Preparation H Ointment with special applicator. Preparation H is sold at all drug counters.

Hints at Scandal

Goldwater Indicates Rough 1964 Campaign

BY JAMES MARLOW

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Barry Goldwater has indicated that if he gets the Republican presidential nomination his campaign against President Johnson will be rougher than those of recent years.

But he has been moving cautiously in his double task of trying to cool any opposition to him among Republicans while going ahead with his efforts to sew up the nomination.

The Associated Press recently asked him his position on a number of issues. The answers, prepared by his staff from some of his recent statements, were released over the weekend.

Main Issues

He was asked what the main campaign issues will be. Several were listed and wound up with this: "... the dark shadow of scandal that hangs even over the white house itself."

There has been no scandal talk in recent campaigns.

There was no explanation for what Goldwater meant. But since he considers this a main point, it can be assumed he would hammer away at it.

If Goldwater gets the nomination, which looks likely, he will need not only all the Republican votes he can get afterward but also those of the usually Democratic Southern states. He has said a Republican couldn't win without them.

Angered Republicans

His votes against the civil rights bill angered a number of Republicans already against him. So far as can be seen it lost him none of his supporters. It probably endeared him to a lot of Southern whites.

He said the bill, voted into law July 2, flies in the face of the Constitution and enforcement of some of its sections would need a "federal police force of mammoth proportions."

He meant the sections prohibiting discrimination in public accommodations and employment. But his "no" vote gave Pennsylvania's Gov. William W. Scranton, his leading opponent for the nomination, an issue at the Republican convention opening next Monday in San Francisco.

GOP Platform

As the Republican platform committee gathered there Sunday for days of hearings before hammering the party's positions and promises together, the Scranton forces' strategy was obvious: How to create divisions at the hearings and come up with conclusions the Goldwater forces couldn't support.

The senator and his advisers had plenty of time to prepare for such a move. Equally obvious for him would be to compromise where he could to avoid party splits.

But there was a very sore point: How compromise on a civil rights plank without alienating the South since, if elected president, Goldwater would be expected to carry through on whatever the platform promised? The Goldwater forces seemed prepared for this, too.

Sunday Show

On a television show Sunday, the senator's chief spokesman on the platform committee, Rep. John J. Rhodes, an Arizona Republican, was asked about Goldwater's views on a civil rights plank.

He gave an answer which might pacify Republicans and soothe the South.

He said Goldwater would go along with a plank, suggested by Scranton, which called for penalizing states that denied their citizens a vote. Under the 14th Amendment a state could be deprived of representatives in Congress in proportion to the number of people not voting.

But this could never be done without a tremendous fight in Congress.

Act Enforcement

Rhodes was also asked what Goldwater, as president, would do about enforcing the Civil Rights Act which he said is contrary to the Constitution.

Rhodes had an answer for that, too: "Sen. Goldwater as president of the United States would certainly require a reasonable degree of enforcement which I think would please anybody."

Reasonable is a debatable word. Enforcement which seemed reasonable to Southern whites, who oppose the Civil Rights Act, might greatly displease Negroes who want its protection.

Teen-Agers Arrested For Imitating Beatles

TAIPEI, Formosa (AP)—Police broke into a house in Taipei early Sunday and found four teen-agers with Beatle hairdos entertaining a swarm of fans.

"The four Chinese Beatles were even noisier than the British Beatles," said a policeman. "The quartet was taken to a police station and their parents summoned. The parents made one request and police cheerfully complied."

"Your words and mine are not a threat, but a statement of fact," Stewart wrote Peterson needs.

Young Iranian Students to Learn American Way of Life in Appleton

Eleven young people from the possibility of having a student visit in her home, the headquarters suggested that she consider setting up a larger program in Appleton.

The group, college students ranging in age from 19 to 24, will be Appleton's first foreign guests under the Experiment in International Living, an organization which sponsors international exchange programs centered in family living.

The eleven area families which will provide "homes away from home" for the visitors held an organizational meeting Tuesday at the Mrs. Leland Knoke residence, 523 N. Linwood Ave. Miss Sue Knoke, a University of Wisconsin student and community chairman for the Experiment in International Living, explained the program.

The Iranians will take part in the normal family life of each home. They also will be taken on tours of interest twice a week during their stay.

The visitors will arrive in the United States July 11 by air in Hartford, Conn. After an orientation in Putney, Vt., headquarters of the program, they will have a campus stay at Marshall University, Huntington, W. Va. The visit to a typical American college will last from July 15 to July 27. The group then will travel by bus to Appleton.

Thirty-eight countries are represented in the program. Approximately 1,600 Americans and an equal number of students from other countries will visit new lands during the summer under the program's auspices.

The idea for Appleton's exchange program originated with Miss Knoke, who first became interested in the program through a friend at College.

EDUCATED MEN NEED

EDUCATED WOMEN! RIGHT OR WRONG?

Right. Informed persons of both sexes are coming to this conclusion. A man in a responsible position in business, the saying that such men must have professions, or in government, wives who understand and are needs a wife who knows what is sympathetic to their activities is all about. Dr. David R. Goddard, provost of the University of Pennsylvania, for instance, has recently gone on record by saying that such men must have professions, or in government, wives who understand and are needs a wife who knows what is sympathetic to their activities is all about. Is drug addiction a form of social revolt?

Yes.

Yes. Some students of the problem say it is, especially among minority groups that have failed to win acceptance.

Those who are rejected by society often in turn reject the society, and drug addiction is one way of doing it. Two of the major aspects are the "bus-ness" of drug use. This "business" is a rejection of honest work and the "kick" of drug use. This essentially acting with regard only to present satisfactions and without any thought given to future consequences. We still have the question as to why

European Nations Begin to Repay American Loans

WASHINGTON (AP) — After receiving more than $45 billion in aid from the United States, some take this particular way to respond, while others take more wholesome ways.

Are You Edgy, Irritable, Easily Upset? What are tensions? What causes them? How can you overcome and control them? Concise, common-sense answers are yours in the booklet, "Tension-And How to Master It." European nations are now paying back loans and giving out more in aid to the rest of the world than they now receive from the United States.

Officials of the Agency for International Development reported Saturday that U.S. aid to Europe for 1963 totaled $647 million, including $428 million in economic assistance and $419 in military aid.

AID reported that "free world" industrialized countries — Western European nations — stepped up their aid programs in 1963. Their 1963 aid total, the last one available, was $2.4 billion, a rejection of honest work and the "kick" of drug use. This essentially acting with regard only to present satisfactions and without any thought given to future consequences. We still have the question as to why

Between 1946 and 1963 U.S. aid to Europe totaled $45.8 billion, of which $11.2 billion was in loans and $34.6 billion in gifts. European repayments on loans during the same period amounted to $6.4 billion.

Shirley Palesh of the Oshkosh team had to regain her amateur status before being allowed to participate in softball play. She formerly was a member of the professional Racine Belles and Rockford Peaches baseball teams. She now performs as manager, pitcher and second baseman. At right, the only married woman of the Menasha Mac-Ettes, Mrs. Clarence Ostrowski, talks things over with the youngest fan, four-month-old daughter, Dawn. Mrs. Ostrowski plays first base, right field or catcher. Most of the women play several positions on the team.

BY JANE MADSEN
Post-Crescent Staff Writer

MENASHA — The distaff side took over the Jefferson Park diamond last weekend for the state women's softball championship tournament. The weather may have been hot and humid but the competition was just as fierce as any involving men's teams.

Area teams — Menasha, Appleton, Oshkosh and Manitowish — got the tournament underway Thursday night with teams from out in the state coming in Friday. They included Madison, Janesville, Mt. Horeb, and Eau Claire.

Most of the girls are 18 to 20 years of age and single but one of the top hurlers of the defending state champion Janesville team is over 50. Her husband manages the team and her 19-year-old son is the batboy.

Enjoy Competition
They play for various reasons — for physical fitness, for sports and competition, and, in some cases, for a night out. The Menasha Mac-Ettes, host team to the tournament, is made up entirely of single girls except for one married woman, Mrs. Clarence Ostrowski. Her four-month-old daughter, Dawn, is probably one of the youngest fans in baseball history. She attends all the games in the care of her father while mother plays first base, right field or does the catching.

Most of the girls played in high school physical education classes and continued in recreation — sponsored leagues.

The girls play as hard as any man's team and bumps and bruises are frequent. Sharon Floor, pitcher and manager for the Mac-Ettes, got spiked sliding into second base in one game and had to have seven stitches in her leg. She also broke a little finger in the state tournament at Oshkosh last year. But she brushes those incidents aside as minor as is intensely interested in the game.

Early Interest
Sharon watched the Neenah Foundry team in the Twin City Industrial League while in the fourth grade and started playing as a sixth grader. She works at the Neenah Foundry and played on the men's league team last year.

Men softball players often he's coach the team. Doug Wiatrowski, who pitches for the Jitters and Joes team, serves as pitching and fielding coach for the Mac-Ettes.

During the regular season most games are played on weekends. The women eat very lightly before a game but often have barbecues after. Team members take turns caring for the bats, balls and other equipment, tossing it into the trunk of a car between scheduled games.

Give Their 'Best'
The players range from dainty and diminutive to husky, but their hitting, fielding, throwing and running is a far cry from what usually is expected of girls in a high school league.

Joe Buss manages the Appleton team and Mrs. Buss does the catching. Practically half of the Appleton squad is married. They play for fun and "a night out." Husbands and children accompany the team to root for Mom. Because of their families, the Appleton squad doesn't get too much of a chance to practice.

Shirley Palesh of the Oshkosh team is a former professional baseball player, having played with the Racine Belles and the Rockford Peaches in a professional circuit for two years. After a long separation from professional play she was granted her amateur standing again and now is playing softball as manager, pitcher and second baseman for the Oshkosh team.

Playing before the male of the species doesn't bother the girls. In fact, most of them said they aren't aware of who is in the stands.

Uniforms Colorful
The uniforms are colorful, usually consisting of a blouse or shirt similar to men's softball uniforms, either long or short-sleeved; Bermuda shorts, and baseball type, knee-high stockings. The baseball shoes have sharp spikes.

Players range in age from an eighth grader playing on the Menasha team to the 50-year-plus hurler on the Janesville team. The requirements for belonging to one of the teams are minimal—the ability to field, hit and run along with a desire to play—put these together and you're in!

Sharon Floor, Manager and Pitcher for the Mac-Ettes, puts the line-up in the score book before one of last weekend's tournament games. The women can argue with an umpire with the best of them, and play with a gusto that would put any major league team on its toes. Above left, Mrs. Joe Buss of the Appleton team does the catching chores for her squad. About half the Appleton players are married. Mrs. Buss' husband, Joe, is manager for the team. Glasses on Deceased Proper According to Irate Undertaker

DEAR ANN LANDERS Why MacArthur lay in state resplendent in five-star regalia. Are you under the impression that General MacArthur slept in that outfit?

Speaking of sleep I think you must have been in a fairly deep slumber yourself when you wrote that reply. Why don't you admit you were wrong and apologize? — No Name Please

Dear No Name All right. So they aren't sleeping. Eye glasses are designed to improve the sight, not? If you should ever hear of a case where glasses over the closed eyes of a person (either living or dead) achieved this, will you please let me know?

DEAR ANN LANDERS My husband and I do not smoke. We have no ash trays in our home, and this is not an oversight. I believe me. It is a way of letting our guests know we don't want anyone smoking when they visit in our house.

Last evening a new business associate of my husband's came over. The very first thing he did was light a cigarette. He then looked around the room for an ash tray and seeing none he said I guess nobody around here smokes. With that he flicked his cigarette ashes in his pants cuff.

I went to the kitchen and brought him a saucer and said as coolly as I could Please use this.

Now I think I made a mistake by supplying the lumox with the saucer. I should have told him off. I know you are a non-smoker. How do you feel about this? — Mad At Myself

Dear Self Not as vehemently as you do. Nonetheless, a considerate person, when he sees no ash trays around, should take the hint.

DEAR ANN LANDERS I am 14 and have a mad crush on a boy who lives in Omaha. Rod and I met at camp and have been corresponding since last year.

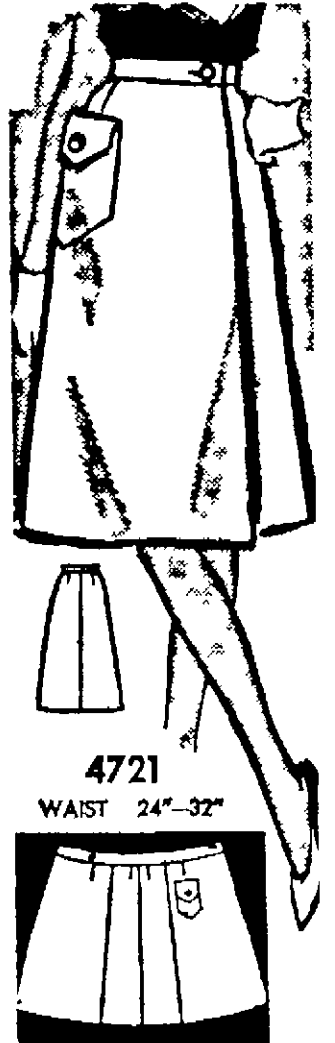

My father says Rod is an idiot just because he writes cute things on the outside of the envelope. I think some of the stuff he writes is real clever. Yesterday I got a letter and Rod had written across the back Beware Postman Handle with asbestos gloves. Hot stuff inside.

When my dad saw this he said Tell that nutty kid if I see any more trash on the envelopes his letters are going into the garbage can.

Please set my dad straight before he ruins my entire life — Candy

Dear Candy Sorry, but I'm with your dad. Tell Rod to save the little gems for in

By Dolly Martin

MAIL CALL
Dear Taffy

My mother father two brothers and I will be heading for New York soon to see the World's Fair. It will be my first big trip away from home and I want to look just right. Mother will not give me too much money for clothes so maybe you could tell me how to dress so I will look nice yet have some money left for other things. I would also appreciate any suggestions you could give me on things to see at the Fair. Thank you

Sincerely
Excited Tourist

Dear Excited Tourist

Go right ahead and build up enthusiasm about your trip because you will see unbelievable marvelous achievements. I hope you can stay long enough to take it all in. But if you like many others have one or two weeks only be sure to map out your journey ahead of time to see the important pavilions. If you haven't already, why not pick up an Official World's Fair Guide (sold all over the country) and go over it with the family to check off special things to see? Then read my trips all week for suggestions on how to dress important things to see and some other timely tips for your family as well.

Sheinwold Bidding Can Dominate Playing

It's possible to win such a victory in the bidding that the play of the cards doesn't matter. Mrs. Stella Rebnor of Los Angeles and Mrs. Alicia Kemper of Santa Monica demonstrated this principle by stealing a hand from their opponents in the recent Olympic championships.

East had a problem over two hearts. Some experts use a double in this position to show strength in the unbid suits, but East wasn't one of those experts.

After East had passed Mrs. Rebnor correctly assumed that the unknown card was a club and that the ace of hearts was therefore a single and her partner's raise showed a weak hand with heart support from her hand to force out the port. Somebody had the high ace at the least possible cost cards after all.

To make life difficult for the opponents Mrs. Rebnor went on to three hearts. Like many with the jack Mrs. Rebnor cashed American experts the Rebnor-Kemper partnership uses this club until East was ready to rebid as a preemptive bid not ruff. The defenders thus got as a serious try for game. The only two trump tricks, the ace opponents knew this but still of diamonds and the ace of couldn't find a way to get back spades into the bidding.

Makes Contract

Mrs. Rebnor added to her gains by making three hearts. She opened the six of spades and the king lost to the ace. East quickly cashed the ace of diamonds, an obvious singleton and then returned the four of spades.

The play of the spades showed Answer: Pass. You haven't

Engagement Of Daughter Announced

NEENAH — Mr. and Mrs. James R. Lauderdale, 845 Geiger St. have announced the engagement of their daughter Dantia Beth to David Missal, son of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Missal, 1306 Glenview Drive.

Miss Lauderdale, a graduate of Neenah High School, attends Wisconsin State University Oshkosh. Her fiancé also is a graduate of Neenah High School and will attend Appleton School of Business.

No wedding date has been set quite enough for a penalty double of two diamonds. If your partner reopens the bidding with a double for takeout you will pass and thus convert the double into a penalty double. (Copyright 1964)

A Lovelier You

By Mary Sue Miller

Is Your Face Red?

In spite of all warnings did include the correct care for you get a sunburn over the week dry, oily, combination and normal? If so how painful is it?

Any degree of sunburn is considered an injury by doctors. Physicians call it an insult to the skin. It surely insults a woman's looks!

With a severe case you must have medical treatment. A slight sunburn can be relieved with first aid creams or with a paste of baking soda and water. Further sunning must be avoided of course until the skin returns to normal.

Once normal the skin requires special pampering to offset the crisping and coarsening effects of burning. These are the methods:

Nightly apply a moisturized facial cream or lotion to the face and shoulders. After baths massage the body with moisturized hand or body lotion. Once weekly take an oil soak. Simply slather on skin or baby oil and let it remain while you relax on a big towel for 15 minutes. Then tub and follow up with a brisk towel and lotion massage.

As a substitute for oil soaks water admisible bath oils do a good job when they are used daily. Soaps and lotions with the pH factor also help to normalize the skin.

Naturally where sunburn is concerned an ounce of prevention—timely exposures and sun tan preparations—is worth a pound of cure. That's obvious now. What may not yet be obvious is the fact you may not be able to tan for years after a bad burn. So beware and from now on take extra care!
